CUMMINGS CHOICE FOR WALSH POST

Connecticut Man Eventually Will Go to Philip-

Informed.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—President-elect Roosevelt tonight announced the selection of Henry Morgenthau Jr., of New York, to be chairman of the farm board.

Mr. Roosevelt in the same announcement said he proposes the re-grouping of all farm credit functions and activities of the national government under one farm credit agency, which is expected to embrace not only such functions of the farm board as desirable—including the financing of co-operatives—but also land banks, intermediate credit banks, production loans of the agriculture department and commercial loans of regional agricultural corporations now under the Reconstruction Corporation.

The next president said wheat and cotton stabilization operation under Mr. Morgenthau would be liquidated as rapidly as possible.

The present chairman of the farm board, James C. Stone, of Kentucky, already had given notice of his retirement on March 4 and President Hoover has accepted the resignation.

Friends of the president-elect were convinced tonight that Homer Cummings, of Connecticut, would be his choice to take the place of the late Senator Walsh, of Montana, as attorney-general. It is understood that Cummings, originally slated for governor-general of the Philippines, will hold the office temporarily and eventually go on to the important insular post.

Cummings is a close friend of Roosevelt and was one of his key men in the pre-convention campaign.

The federal land banks and the intermediate credit banks now function under the treasury department.

The consolidation announced tonight by Roosevelt constitutes a far-reaching change and represents an effort to concentrate agriculture financing activities into one head for more efficient and prompt loan service to the farmers.

It was understood Morgenthau would bring here as his first assistant Herbert Gaston, Albany, N. Y., who is now acting conservation commissioner of New York state.

Libby Leaves Baby To Visit New Estate

PHILADELPHIA, March 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds left her seven-week-old son in the Pennsylvania hospital long enough today to pay a visit to the estate she leased several months ago near Wilmington, Del.

Mrs. Reynolds, widow of Smith Reynolds, has been remaining at the hospital, where the heir to part of the Reynolds tobacco fortune is gaining in weight steadily.

The former Broadway singer leased the Ives estate in Delaware several weeks before she entered the hospital January 10.

Her son was underweight at birth, and since has been kept in a modified incubator.

SEN. WALSH DIES OF HEART ATTACK EN ROUTE NORTH

Bride Finds Montana
Solon and Attorney-General-Designate Dying
Aboard Train.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—To the scene of his many legislative triumphs Senator Thomas J. Walsh returned in death tonight mourned by a great throng which had awaited the arrival of his body at the station.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Senator Walsh's colleague, and Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, in behalf of the senate, met the Florida Limited bringing the body of the Montana senator to Washington.

Others present included James Roosevelt, son of the president-elect; Colonel Campbell Hodge, military aide to President Hoover, who represented the White House.

There were a number of Cubans present to express their condolences to the widow, the former Senator De Truffin, to whom Senator Walsh was wed only last week.

Senator Walsh, attorney-general-designate, died of a heart attack early today near Wilson, N. C., as he was hurrying with his bride five days to Washington to take his place in President-elect Roosevelt's cabinet.

Mrs. Walsh, who he married in Havana Saturday, found him lying unconscious shortly after daybreak on the floor of their drawing room of Atlantic Coast Line Train No. 72. He died at 7:10 a. m. without regaining consciousness. Mrs. Walsh became almost hysterical as she told of his death and required medical attention herself.

Apparently the 73-year-old, gray-haired Montana democrat left his berth when seized with the attack and fell to the floor as he started to awaken his wife.

When Mrs. Walsh discovered the senator on the floor she screamed and called a porter. Together they lifted Senator Walsh to a berth and the porter raced through seven cars for Conductor Herbert Weatherhead.

There was a faint pulse when the conductor arrived and he summoned Dr. Richard J. Costello, of Cambridge, Mass., a passenger on the train.

Governor's "Inauguration Special" Leaves Atlanta for Capital

JAPANESE TROOPS SWEEP UNCHECKED TOWARD OBJECTIVE

Chinese Defenses Crumble as Invaders Drive to Within 75 Miles of Capital of Jehol.

By the Associated Press.

The Chinese defense lines in Jehol crumbled and the Japanese advance swept on unchecked yesterday.

Lingyuan has already fallen and Chibheng was in the hands of the invaders.

The column which started from Chinchow, Manchuria, capturing Peipiao, Chaoyang and Lingyuan has progressed to a point less than 75 miles from Jehol City.

Japanese planes were reported to have dropped bombs on the new air-drome outside the capital.

Dr. W. W. Yen, Dr. Wellington Koo and Quo Tschai sent a cablegram to Nanking submitting their resignations as the Chinese representatives at Geneva.

In their opinion, they said, the scene of action has shifted from Geneva to Jehol and their services no longer are needed.

JAPAN'S INVADING ARMY
BREAKS THROUGH DEFENSE
CHINCHOW, Manchuria, March 2.—(AP)—Japan's invading army has broken through the strongest Chinese defenses and tonight was less than 75 miles from Jehol City.

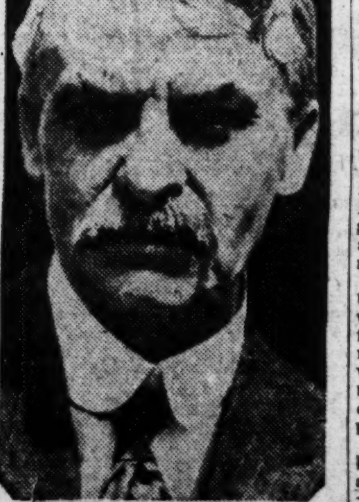

The 18th infantry under General Tadashi Kawahara poured into Lingyuan this morning, passed through without stopping, captured the town of Sentaoling, a few miles west, and kept right on to Pekung, on the motor highway which leads to the capital.

General Kunizo Matsuda, commanding the 11th infantry, moved down from the north, having captured Chienping, to join General Kennosuke Mogi's 4th cavalry which was waiting at Chibheng.

The cavalry took Chibheng without a fight.

HOUSE DEMANDS $3 LICENSE TAGS

Further play in the senate-house football game over the automobile license tag reduction proposal probably will come up early next week when new conference committees are appointed by both houses following action of the representatives Thursday in insisting on a $3 minimum price for small cars.

The house went so far as to amend its rules in order to permit a vote on whether or not it would recede from its position and accept the senate substitute (a minimum price of $2.50) only to adopt a motion by Representative Roy Harris, of Augusta, that the house stick by its guns and appoint a new conference committee.

The new conference committee of the house, under Thursday's action, will be requested to work toward effecting a compromise whereby a $3 rate will be established for cars weighing up to 2,600 pounds, with a rate of $3 plus 50 cents for each additional 100 pounds above 2,600 pounds.

The latest amendment to the tag bill, that placed on it by the house after the senate adopted its substitute,

JAPANESE 'QUAKE' TAKES HEAVY TOLL

TOKYO, March 3. (Friday)—(AP)—A death toll of several hundreds was indicated today on the basis of first casualty reports from the earthquake and tidal wave which caused destruction throughout northeastern Japan early this morning and was felt along the entire eastern coast, including Tokyo.

The prefectures of Iwate and Miyagi, in the northeast, were the hardest hit. The town of Omoto, on the coast of Iwate, reported more than 100 dead.

At Tanohata, near Omoto, there were 12 known dead and 45 missing. At Fudai, in the same vicinity, one person was known to have been killed and many were missing.

The tidal wave claimed the majority of the victims. Tokyo felt the quake but there were no reports of any material damage nor of casualties.

Several thousand buildings in the fishing ports of the northeast collapsed or were washed away.

HAPPY GEORGIANS SPEED NORTHWARD FOR INAUGURATION

Crescent Limited, 2 Special Trains Carry 2,500 Empire State Citizens To Witness Ceremonies.

By L. A. FARRELL,
Staff Correspondent.

ON BOARD TALMADGE SPECIAL, SOMEWHERE IN THE CAROLINAS, March 2.—Ahead thunders the Crescent, behind roars the Warm Springs Special. Those trains and this one are packed with enthusiastic Georgians bound for Washington and the inauguration of the state's adopted son, President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In all, some 2,500 democratic sons of the Empire State of the South are rolling over the hills of the Carolinas, singing democratic songs and fervently hoping that the new day and the new deal will help their section. There are about 500 inaugural-bound passengers on the Crescent, a thousand on this train and fully that number on the Warm Springs Special which follows a couple of miles behind.

Governor Eugene Talmadge, National Committeeman John S. Cohen and Chairman Hugh Howell, of the democratic state committee, head this party, which includes the governor's staff, a delegation from the Fulton County Women's Democratic League, some 18 or 20 members of the senate headed by President Pro Tem. Hugh A. Carothers, of Windsor, and a larger delegation from the house headed by Speaker E. D. Rivers.

Mrs. Edgar Alexander, the national committeewoman for the state, was at the station to see the Georgia party off, but she was unable to make the trip because of the serious illness of a member of her family. Mrs. Alexander promised to fly to Washington early Saturday if the condition of the

First Lady To Curtail Her Social Activities

EN ROUTE WITH PRESIDENT-ELECT ROOSEVELT TO WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, aboard the special train carrying her husband and herself to Washington, announced tonight that out of respect for the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh she would in all probability cancel practically her entire social program incident to the inauguration.

"In all probability," she said, "the luncheon at the White House after the inauguration will be given up, and it is very likely that everything on my program except the White House tea and the reception at the Women's National Democratic Club will be eliminated."

ROOSEVELT GETS DOWN TO BUSINESS UPON HIS ARRIVAL

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—President-elect Roosevelt arrived in Washington at 9:25 p. m. tonight.

Despite a drizzling rain, a good-sized crowd was gathered at the station to greet him. A number of prominent democrats boarded Mr. Roosevelt's car to welcome him.

Within 10 minutes the president-elect left the train with his wife and members of his family and all boarded a limousine bearing the White House seal.

Extraordinary precautions were taken by police guarding the station. Even newspaper reporters were held several hundred feet from the Roosevelt car. When his automobile drove slowly out of the station on its way to the Mayflower hotel motorcycle policemen rode in front and behind it, while plainclothes men walked beside the car.

Gets Down to Work.
The president-elect hardly had settled down at the hotel before he entered upon a swift round of conferences which began with a discussion with his secretary of state, Senator Cordell Hull.

A steady stream of senatorial callers followed, each spending a short while. They included Senator Robinson, the democratic leader; Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, ranking democrat of the finance committee; Walsh, of Massachusetts; Bill of Washington; Wheeler, of Montana; Long, of Louisiana.

It was said that arrangements for the funeral of the late Senator Walsh, of Montana, were among the principal subjects up for discussion.

Program Curtailed.
Mrs. Roosevelt decided tonight to curtail drastically the inaugural social program in respect for the memory of Senator Walsh.

The president-elect's wife said she and her family would not attend the inaugural ball or the unemployment benefit concert, and she cancelled her attendance at the election's dinner and the reception for governors.

The luncheon for 500 guests at the White House Saturday will be cancelled. Mrs. Roosevelt said the scheduled tea for 2,000 guests would be held inauguration day.

"We want to do everything to show our respect for Senator Walsh and our grief for his death," said Mrs. Roosevelt. "We feel it would not be fair, however, not to receive at the White House all those who have come to Washington to see us and the White House and might not have an opportunity to come again."

She will call upon Mrs. Walsh early Friday morning.

President Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt prepared tonight for their inaugural meeting as outgoing and incoming leaders of the nation—a conference scheduled as social but which

GEORGIANS TO BACK COX FOR COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—Georgia's democratic delegation met today and unanimously endorsed Representative Cox for membership on the powerful house ways and means committee.

Cox now is a member of the rules committee. The ways and means committee writes all tax and tariff laws. In addition, its democratic members serve as the party's committee on committees, making assignments to all the other house committees.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—South Trimble, of Kentucky, was re-elected clerk of the house of representatives tonight at the democratic caucus over Representative William L. Nelson, of Missouri. Trimble received 158 votes and Nelson 118.

A rugged, white-haired middle westerner, Rainey, of Illinois, was chosen by the democrats of the next house tonight to hold the speaker's gavel in the new congress.

In caucus the party members nominated him for the post, action equivalent to election, elevating him from his present position of democratic floor leader. To the latter position Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, was elected—by a margin of one vote. He received 151 votes to 140 for Bankhead, of Alabama. Rainey won with 196 votes, 15 more than a majority of the 301 present. Representative McDuffie, of Alabama, the party whip, was second with 112 votes. Rankin, of Mississippi, received 20 votes. Bankhead, of Alabama 1, and Jones, of Texas, 2.

Rainey's nomination was brought about when Byrns and Crosser, of Ohio, withdrew from the race, and Cullen, of New York, threw the full weight of his big Tammany delegation to the Illinois veteran.

A Tennessee democratic leader, Crump, was given credit for engineering the shift that threw the votes of the other candidates to Rainey. Tammany, which had been waiting to jump on the bandwagon, acted at the last moment.

Rainey also received unexpected support from a group of Texas members, rounded up by Buchanan, who will succeed Byrns as chairman of the

Gaiety and Sadness Mingle While Inaugural Day Nears

By EDWARD J. DUFFY.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—This teeming capital opened its arms tonight to take Franklin D. Roosevelt as its own, amidst an atmosphere of once sober and lightsome in readiness for his inauguration Saturday as the new president of the United States.

An awareness of the loss both to the incoming administration and the nation in the death of Thomas J. Walsh was evident beneath the trappings of gaiety.

Inaugural arrangements had to go on, however, and Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson said the plans would be carried out as agreed upon unless Mr. Roosevelt should decree differently.

The weatherman late tonight forecast fair weather for Saturday.

So the program remained for the official opening of the ceremonies with this evening's public concert at the Pan-American Union building, giving the first opportunity for the myriad of visitors to congregate.

From every section, by every means of conveyance, they have gathered to such an extent that already congestion shows itself in the city—although the big day is two days off.

The major interest, of course, is in the persons of those to succeed

Hoover and Curtis at the government helm—Roosevelt and Garner.

Intent upon the utmost protection for the president-to-be, the secret service and metropolitan police utilized every precaution for meeting the presidential train from New York at the Union station here.

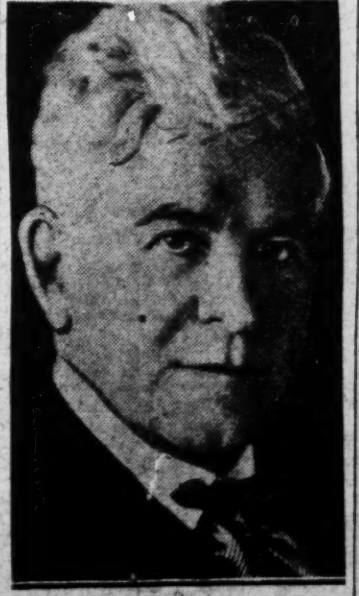

Laughing aside suggestions that he be so closely guarded, Speaker John N. Garner divided today between the complexities that still confront him in the house and welcoming fellow Texans come to see him take office as vice president.

Group after group of his friends from the southwest, among them his ardent supporter, Amos G. Carter, Fort Worth publisher, trooped into Mr. Garner's sanctum to shake his hand and have a word. It seemed open house for a while.

At the White House, meanwhile, arrangements were made for the formal call of respect which President Hoover will receive tomorrow from his successor-elect. He again was kept busy with farewells and good wishes from the numbers in office of Washington who have come to know him so well since his wartime days as food administrator, as secretary of commerce in the Harding and Coolidge administrations.

HENRY T. RAINEY.

Cermak's Courage, Stamina Aided By Medicine's Most Potent 'Magic'

MIAMI, Fla., March 2.—(AP)—Modern medicine's scientific "magic" helped Mayor Anton Cermak, of Chicago, stand the odds against death.

One after another, the latest medical discoveries were used to fend off the series of complications that beset the mayor after the wound he received at the hands of Giuseppe Zangara, the man who meant to assassinate President-elect Roosevelt.

The mayor's own stout heart and indomitable will to get well played a big part in surviving the wound and accompanying disorders but the physicians and surgeons attending him called into play a vast amount of new medical knowledge.

The doctors were Frederick Tice, Karl A. Meyer, and Frank Jirka, of Chicago; E. S. Nichol and J. W. Snyder, of Miami. In addition, Dr. P. B. Welch, intestinal specialist, came out of retirement to confer with the others.

Dr. Walter Hamburger, of Chicago; Dr. T. W. Hutson, Miami expert on gunshot wounds, and Dr. M. M. Coplan, kidney specialist, joined in the consultations.

A powerful medicine (ephedrine hydrochloride) discovered in China 5,000 years ago, but rediscovered and introduced into the United States only seven years ago, was resorted to, in final desperation to halt the spread of deadly colitis through Cermak's intestinal system. It was effective.

When his strength was greatly depleted, a blood transfusion was made. A pint of blood taken from the veins of Dr. R. Sam Mosley, of the Jackson Memorial hospital staff, was supplied. It was described as highly successful, and was regarded as the real turning point in Cermak's condition.

Another of medicine's wonders—the oxygen tent—was used successfully to help his heart and lungs in valiant efforts to supply the body's necessary oxygen. The tent supplied 40 to 50 per cent oxygen. Ordinary air contains 20 per cent.

An oxygen room—big enough to fit over the hospital bed and allow room enough for nurses and doctors at the bedside was rushed from New York by plane, and Cermak was placed in it. It was ordered when he complained that the smaller tents were too confining.

When his intestines were dangerously inflamed, and diarrhoea swept what little food he could take out of his body before nourishment was obtained, the doctors were ready with intravenous injections of glucose to help him over the hurdle.

The pain that prevented sleep was relieved by first use of sedatives for a time.

Pneumonia added its dread danger to all the other complications, but apparently was halted after it inflamed most of the lower lobe of the right lung. This lung was pierced by Zangara's bullet. An X-ray examination last night showed a clearing of the pneumonia and absence of pus or fluids in other chest organs.

The ancient Chinese medicine (ephedrine), which comes from the plant Mahuang, acts as a powerful heart stimulant in addition to its colitis healing power. Doctors were hesitant to use it because of the dangerous character of Cermak's heart condition.

As the colitis became more and more serious, however, they determined upon the medicine as the only means to halt the disease that would have caused death. In addition to checking the colitis, it also beneficially served the heart, the doctors reported after its use.

NOT ONE BANK FAILURE IN BRITAIN, CANADA

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(UP)—During the past 12 years 10,738 banks with deposits totalling $5,008,324,000 have closed their doors in the United States while banks of Great Britain and Canada have been free from runs or failures.

This sharp contrast is largely behind agitation by congressional leaders and administrative officials to reform the national system.

Fiscal authorities here give the following comparisons of the British and American banking customs.

British banks are managed by trained men. American banks are, in the words of a well-known treasury official, "managed in a hodge-podge fashion by untrained and often ignorant individuals."

Banks in Great Britain and Canada are organized under four or five gigantic systems which have a network of branches. They operate as commercial institutions with investments confined almost exclusively to commercial paper easily liquidated.

American banks are organized under national and state control and are divided into a great number of separate types. Loans are made on real estate and other investments often difficult to liquidate.

British banks are not allowed to speculate on the stock market. There is no such restriction in this country. It is extremely difficult to obtain a bank charter in Great Britain or Canada. Not so in the United States where only $25,000 is required for capitalization.

Business in Britain has not flourished since the World War and as a result have not over-loaned as was the case in this country.

Boettcher Release Launches Intensive Hunt for Kidnapers

DENVER, March 2.—(AP)—Law enforcement agencies, backed by the power and weight of the Boettcher name and fortune, swept tonight into a remorseless search for the men who kidnaped Charles Boettcher II, February 12, and held him captive until last night.

Over three states grizzled plainmen, police radio patrolmen and sheriff's posse combed the prairies and mountains for the abductors who forced Claude K. Boettcher, father of the victim, to pay $50,000 ransom for his son's safe return.

Meanwhile, safe in his home, young Boettcher talked of his captivity. "There's really not much to tell," he said. "I almost got shot at the time I was taken away because I reached into my pocket for money, thinking it was a robbery."

"When they placed me in the car they told me to shut up and then they handgaged my eyes with adhesive tape. We rode about 18 hours and they put me in a basement. Sometimes they allowed me to read for an hour or two, but never did they allow me to see them."

"They treated me well enough and Tuesday night they bundled me into the car and told me they were bringing me back to turn me loose. I knew of no ransom."

Boettcher and his father talked briefly. The son explained he was under a physician's care. He wore dark glasses. The adhesive tape, with which his eyes had been covered almost continuously, left them sore. He contracted a bad cold during his captivity and his "nerves were shot," he said.

James B. Grant, attorney for the family, however, over the two men and frequently objected to questions which were asked.

Although the payment of ransom has been described in detail by friends of the family, the elder Boettcher, on advice of Grant, refused to admit it had been paid. He said, however, that "all obligations were fulfilled" to the kidnapers.

Hold "Rabbit Hunters." His future actions, he said, were "not wholly planned" although he had determined to track the men down. The much discussed notes sent Boettcher by the kidnapers have not yet been turned over to the police and will be "only at the proper time," he said.

Police tonight were holding Ralph Perry, 24, and John Mitchell, 26, of Pate, Col. They were found at an unfrequented spot in northern Colorado and brought to Denver. They told police they were hunting rabbits but they were held for further questioning.

Less than three hours after the 31-year-old heir to one of the largest fortunes in the west had been released from the Denver stockyards, Sheriff Lee Templeton, of Adams county, and two civilian deputies had engaged a carload of men in a running gun fight east of Denver.

Near Greeley, Colo., early today two watchmen surprised two men who were apparently removing a wounded man from a car. They bundled him back into their car and fled northward when the officers approached. They were pursued to the outskirts of Cheyenne, Wyo., where they escaped.

A revised version of how the ransom was paid the kidnapers was given by family friends.

First reports had Dr. John M. Foster, family physician, delivering the $50,000 in $20 bills to a spot designated by the abductors. Foster denied he was the family's emissary. It developed that James B. Grant, an attorney, and R. L. Laird, a private detective, tossed a bag containing the money out of their automobile at a culvert. Grant did not see anyone. They sped back to Denver and soon after young Boettcher notified his mother, Mrs. Millson McCormick, that he had been released.

At the request of Denver police,

Wisconsin Will Vote April 4 on Repeal

MADISON, Wis., March 2.—(AP)—A Wisconsin convention on ratification of the prohibition repeal amendment will be held April 25.

This was assured today by the senate which concurred unanimously in the Fox bill which the assembly passed last night providing for the election of 15 delegates to the convention at the April 4 election.

INDIANA LEGISLATURE PASSES CONVENTION BILL
INDIANAPOLIS, March 2.—(AP)—The Indiana senate today passed a house bill providing for a state convention to vote upon repeal of the federal prohibition amendment. The measure must be returned to the house for concurrence in minor amendments made by the senate. The vote in the senate was 35 to 7.

El Paso (Texas) detectives today were seeking two men who arrived there on a Western Air Express plane from the north.

Denver police said the men were wanted for questioning in connection with the kidnaping of Boettcher. They had not been traced since they registered at an El Paso hotel.

POWER COMPANY OFFERS DONATION TO LIGHT STREETS

Hope of reviving Atlanta's white way system was seen Thursday as the Georgia Power Company offered to donate about $50,000 in power to the city, which would be about 20 percent of the entire light allocation, it was announced by Alderman W. W. Waits, chairman of the electric lights committee of council.

Under the donation plan the city would have $250,000 worth of overhead residential and whiteway lamps at a total cost of $222,500. At present the allocation for the entire light bill as carried in the revised January financial sheet is $200,000. The committee will seek the additional $22,500 from council at Monday's session.

"We will have all the whiteways which we had at Christmas," Waits said, "if the program is approved by council. The company has made a generous and public-spirited contribution."

Jackson P. Dick, division manager of the power company, appeared at the meeting of the electric lights committee. During the holiday season the company turned on Atlanta's darkened whiteway system as its commitment to the citizens.

As a reward for all of you who have faithfully stood by me for the past six weeks, I am going to let you in on a secret. A big prize puzzle is coming out next Tuesday. A full page advertisement will tell you all about it, and there's going to be $250 in cash, so watch for The Constitution next Tuesday morning. Until then, I am your "jig saw com-mentator."

THREE MEALS A DAY

KITCHEN TESTED RECIPES

by Sally Saver

FREE—TWO GENERAL FOODS COOK BOOKS—FREE

Again this week I am offering two prizes, each a General Foods Cook Book. This cook book is truly a gem for any kitchen. Three hundred and seventy pages filled with delicious and tempting recipes, menus and household hints. Over 600 recipes and here's how you may win one of these cook books.

RULES OF CONTEST.

The two prizes will be awarded this week for the best salad recipe. Recipes must be addressed to Sally Saver, The Constitution. They must be received before Thursday noon, March 9. That's all—so now send in your recipes. Tell your friends, as this prize is one worth winning. Let's go, "sisters of the skillet."

First, let me give you two winning pie recipes for last week—here they are:

Pineapple Cream Pie.

One can White House condensed milk, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 egg yolks, juice of 1 lemon, 1 No. 1 can crushed pineapple, well drained.

Method: Cream butter and sugar together. Add yolks of eggs, milk, lemon juice and pineapple. Beat this all well. Line 9-inch pie plate with rolled fine china wafers. Around the edge of plate break wafers in half to form the top of crust. Use one 10-cent package of wafers for crust. Pour filling in plate, pour meringue on.

For meringue use the 2 egg whites, beating very stiff, then add 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 3 tablespoons sugar, put in slowly, beating all the time until it is all used.

Bake 15 minutes at 200 degrees F.—moderately-hot oven.

Mrs. L. B. McNAIR, Calhoun, Ga.

Caramel Nut Pie.

Four eggs, separated; 2 cups milk, 2 cups sugar (1 for caramel); 5 teaspoons flour, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 cup of chopped pecans or other nut meats.

Method: Beat egg yolks; add milk, 1 cup sugar and flour mixed together; and butter. Cook in double boiler until thick, stirring constantly. Put other cup of sugar in cold frying pan and stir over fire until it melts and browns then mix it with the curd and beat smooth. Add nut meats. Pour into 2 baked shells and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 10 minutes. Pile meringue, made from the 4 egg whites beaten stiff and 8 tablespoons of sugar, on top of pies and bake until light brown in a moderate oven.

MRS. G. N. FLOYD, 203 Buena Vista Ave.

The cook books will go forward by mail tomorrow.

Now then, let's go forward with our salad recipes—here's a diversified field and you can use your culinary capabilities to good advantage. Let's send in several, and next Friday I will pass them on to you.

I have had several letters asking if contestants were limited to sending in one recipe. The answer is "you can send in as many as you wish." And now for the good news for this week. Jessie Marie DeBoth has sent me another of her famous letters, and as many of you have asked for recipes on Chinese foods, here are some that will please your palate.

CHINESE DISHES

Chinese food may be very quickly prepared, making it ideal for the business woman's party.

Chop sticks will help break down reserve among your guests. Shrimp chop suey is sure to delight the fastidious luncheon guest.

The weekly bridge-luncheon or meetings of the dinner club bring vexing problems to some hostesses. But not to that clever person who delights her guests by introducing a Chinese atmosphere into the occasion. Chop suey or chow mein are rapid-

PIERRE DE LANUX TO SPEAK SUNDAY BEFORE SPELMAN

Pierre De Lanux, director of the Paris office of the League of Nations, will speak at Spelman College Sunday under the joint auspices of Atlanta University and Spelman College. The address will be given at the vespers service, which is held in Sisters chapel at 3 o'clock, and to which the public is invited.

M. De Lanux is making his third American lecture tour under the auspices of the League of Nations Association. He has had a varied career as war correspondent in the Balkans, with the French ambulance corps, an official to the United States in charge of liaison with Czechs, Poles, Jugoslavs and Rumanians; on the staff of Andre Tardieu during the Paris peace conference, and author of several books. His "Life of Henry IV," which was published in Paris in 1927, was hailed as one of the most brilliant biographies of the year.

In 1923 M. De Lanux organized the French "Comite d'Action pour la Societe des Nations," and proved to be an indefatigable worker, speaking in literally hundreds of towns on the subject of the pacific union of the world. The work was such a distinct contribution that in 1924 M. De Lanux was appointed director of the Paris office of the League of Nations, a task which calls for co-ordinating the French associations dealing with international affairs, supplying information to the public and the press, and furnishing material to such publications as the League Nations Chronicle, the New York Times, L'Europe Nouvelle and the Europe-paische Revue.

Incisive interests are at work over there, although I shall not mention any names," Mr. Culpepper said. "You businessmen must educate these legislators from the country on their duties. They come up here thinking that the utilities are rolling in money, and want to tax them to death."

He said he would favor a sales tax if other taxes, such as the ad valorem tax, were done away with, and if the proceeds were applied to education, but he was opposed to the movement to take the tax off real estate. Walter Sims, senator from this district, was author of such a measure, Mr. Culpepper said.

Mr. Culpepper said he feared Governor Talmadge had overestimated the state's income at $8,500,000. The state's deficit of $2,500,000, he added, began when the University of Georgia authorities and the common schools got together on their annual appropriations fight.

Mr. Culpepper said that appropriations were really made by allocation, which he did not consider a good system. He added that the legislative dispute over the tax bill was delaying necessary legislation.

REALTORS TO HOLD SALES CONFERENCE

The Atlanta Real Estate Board will hold an all-day sales conference at the Ansley hotel today under the auspices of John A. Berge, field representative of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The conference will open at 9:30 o'clock, when Mr. Berge will talk on "What Kind of Salesmanship Will Produce Results in 1933?" After luncheon Mr. Berge will discuss "Facts, Fancies and Fables."

The board has issued an invitation to all real estate men in Atlanta to attend, and invited out-of-town brokers as well. Several of the latter are expected.

"More crackers per pound..."

how on earth do you do it?"

THEY'RE LIGHTER

AND FLAKIER

AND MADE BY THE

AND MADE BY THE

ACCORDION FOLD METHOD

No WONDER thrifty housewives keep asking how it is Sunshine Bakers give so many more crackers per pound in the big, blue and white Krispy Cracker packages.

15 to 20 More Crackers Per Pound

The reason is that Sunshine Krispy Crackers are made differently from those other, heavier crackers. Just take a look at the diagram in the next column. We've tried to show you graphically how we do it. Every housewife will be interested in this important baking story.

In this special method used by Sunshine Bakers, the dough is rolled and then folded or "pleated" into many layers. By a secret Sunshine method, these laminated folds of dough are held tightly together.

When the carefully controlled heat of the oven strikes them, they expand and spring apart, forming a lighter, flakier and more flavorful cracker.

This special Accordion Fold Method makes Sunshine Krispy Crackers lighter and flakier.

More Servings Per Package

Because of these important differences, they're not only much better-tasting with soups, salads, cheese and all sorts of spreads, but they give you more servings per package. As a result, they help make your money go further... without sacrificing quality! Isn't it wise economy always to insist on Sunshine Krispy Crackers at your grocer's?

Jacoby, Burnstine Leading In Reisinger Contract Play

Two Foursomes Will Meet Today for Final Battle for Bridge Title in 1933 Tournament.

By WILLIAM R. SPEAR.
NEW YORK, March 2.—(P)—Oswald Jacoby and David Burnstine, who won the eastern team championship last year as teammates on P. Hal Sims' "Four Horsemen," led opposing teams of their own to the finals of the 1933 tournament today.

The two foursomes, survivors of four days' play, will meet tomorrow for the title and the Curt H. Reisinger trophy. Playing with Jacoby are Louis H. Watson, Theodore A. Lightner and Michael T. Gottlieb. Burnstine's associates are Richard Frey, Howard Schenken and Charles Lochridge.

Sims did not enter this year's competition. Willard S. Karn, his partner in the "Four Horsemen," was a member of the team Burnstine's four defeated in the semi-final today by 630 points. The others were George Reith, Charles Goren and B. Jay Becker, of Philadelphia.

Jacoby's quartet today eliminated Lee Langdon, John Matthews, Harry Ruffel and L. B. Bachner by the slim edge of 60 points.

The eastern bridge teachers' championship, completed after a third session today, was captured by Mrs. H. R. Taylor and A. J. Ferris, who had led the day before. The defending holders of the Elizabeth Baufeld trophy were Mrs. Dorothy Roberts and Mrs. Daphne Tench.

A third event, the "preliminary pairs," found 24 twosomes qualified for the third and final session tomorrow. The event is being played for the first time this year. Mrs. Herman Lieberman donated the cup.

In the eastern pair championship, from which many favorites have been eliminated, 28 survivors played a fourth session tonight. The finals are tomorrow night.

Burnstine and Frey read each other's hands aright to arrive at a small slam contract on the following hands, which they made:

North (Burnstine)
S-K 4
H-10
D-10
C-K Q 10 3
South (Frey)
S-10 6 2
H-K J 8 5
D-7 5 4 3
C-8

Burnstine and Frey were vulnerable. With the opponents passing, Burnstine opened with a club. Frey bid a spade, Burnstine two clubs, Frey three no-trump, Burnstine four diamonds, Frey four hearts, Burnstine four no-trump and Frey six no-trump.

'WE WANT CAVIAR!' PRISONERS LAMENT AFTER HIGH LIVING

MOUNT KISCO, N. Y., March 2.—(P)—There were no hors d'oeuvres on the jail menu today and the prisoners were yawning about it.

"What, no anchovies?" they said. "What, no delicate viands? No cream-puffs? No lady fingers? What kind of a jail is this?"

The chief of police was apologetic. He admitted the bill of fare was not what it should be. Yesterday, for instance, the best he could do for the prisoners was sandwiches, potato salad and potato chips.

"The way it is," he said, "the clubs and churches send over what's left after social affairs. As a result some of the boys have accustomed their palates to delicacies of the caviar-olives-and-ice cream school of food-stuffs. Fancy sandwiches cut in nifty heart shapes have got the best of them. They're getting so they think no meal is complete without something with a little class to it."

"When the supplies cease I am afraid they will not take kindly to frankfurters and beans, although there is nothing like a good frankfurter to buck one up; and a plate of beans has vitamin merits beyond dispute."

And from down in the cell block came the wail:

PERSECUTION CHARGED BY JOSEPH I. REECE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 2.—(P)—Joseph I. Reece, former Tennessee commissioner of insurance and banking charged with larceny of $100,000 of bonds, fraudulent breach of trust and conspiracy, today issued a statement declaring that "the whole thing grows out of personal animosity toward me."

"The persistent pursuance and persecution of me," the statement declared, "are 'due to the activities' of Nat Tipton, an assistant in the state attorney-general's office, 'with whom I had a very sharp verbal altercation.'"

Several weeks ago the attorney-general's office issued warrants charging Reece with larceny of the bonds from the blue sky division of the insurance department. The former commissioner also charged with fraudulently breach of trust and with conspiring with his brother, Lem Reece, to commit an indictable offense. Lem Reece, an attorney of Elizabethton, Tenn., was charged in another warrant with receiving stolen property.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID CHIEF JOHN TERRELL

City officials and hundreds of friends paid a last tribute Thursday afternoon to Chief John Terrell, whose funeral rites were held at the First Presbyterian church with Dr. J. Sproule Lyons officiating. Burial was in Oakland cemetery.

Thousands of persons lined the city streets as the funeral cortege of the chief passed on its way from the church to the cemetery and uniformed firemen stood with uncovered heads as the body of their leader passed by. The city hall was closed Thursday afternoon during the hour of the funeral by order of Mayor James L. Key as a mark of respect for one of the city's most valiant officials.

Chief Terrell died Monday morning at Grady hospital of injuries received the preceding night when the official car was rammed by another machine driven by Garfield Towers, negro. He was on his way to answer a call which later proved false.

Prisoner Wins Case After Escaping Pen

You can't be put back in prison for breaking out of prison when you had no business being in the prison in the first place, is the substance of a ruling by Judge E. Marvin Underwood, in federal district court Thursday in allowing Joseph Soileau, of Louisiana, a federal prisoner, his freedom.

Soileau was sent up 18 months from the western district of Louisiana on conviction of violating the national motor vehicle theft act. Later, while confined at Camp Lee, Virginia, he escaped and was subsequently recaptured and indicted for escaping and given a year and a day on the charge. He was sent to the federal penitentiary here.

On a writ of habeas corpus he proved he was illegally held on the auto theft charge and in another habeas corpus action Thursday he gained his freedom. Judge Underwood ruling that in escaping from an illegal imprisonment he should not suffer a sentence for escaping.

Parker, 24, were formally charged with first-degree murder in connection with the death two weeks ago of Walter Collins, artist, formerly of Cincinnati, it became known today. Announcement of the charge was made at a coroner's jury hearing by Deputy Sheriff L. M. Hutton, in charge of the investigation.

Georgian To Represent U. S. In Loan Dispute With Liberia

Major-General Blanton Winslip, of Macon, Sent to Negro Republic by President.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—Major-General Blanton Winslip, of Macon, Ga., judge advocate general of the army, who is on his way to Liberia as special representative of the president to untangle the situation of the violation of American loan agreements, is expected to return to Washington within two months.

Efforts of the state department to carry on negotiations with President Edwin E. Barclay, of Liberia, through Charles E. Mitchell, American minister to that country, broke down several weeks ago. Mitchell has never presented his credentials to Barclay as the United States refuses to recognize the present Liberian government because of the obstacles it has placed in the way of financial and social reorganization of the negro republic.

In co-operation with the League of Nations committee on Liberia the United States has worked out a plan for the reorganization of the republic, under foreign advisors, in such a manner that forced labor under conditions approximating slavery may be eliminated and the finances of the country put on a sound basis.

The plan contemplates the advancement of money by the United States to the Liberian government to create and maintain the new administration. This corporation is affiliated with the Firestone interests which agreed to make a loan of $5,000,000 to Liberia in consideration of a concession of land for rubber culture.

Of this sum $2,250,000 has already been advanced. The Liberian government has revised the terms of the loan agreements without the consent of the lenders and Secretary Stimson's efforts to get adequate protection for American rights resulted in an impasse between Barclay and Mitchell.

Barclay refused to receive further letters from Mitchell and General Winslip has been sent to make an investigation and report to the president how this government shall proceed in the protection of American interests.

PLAYERS AT SHORTER PLAN DRAMA PROGRAM

ROME, Ga., March 2.—Shorter College players will present a dramatic production in the college auditorium on March 6, and the men's parts will be taken by students at Darlington school. This is the first time that such a plan has been adopted and the interest is high in both schools as well as among the people of Rome.

A program of plays and skits will be presented, giving a full evening's entertainment. The program is under the direction of Mrs. Allie Hayes Richardson, of Shorter, and W. S. Dix, of Darlington.

The first play to be presented will be "Fanny Business," a comedy in one act. Those taking part will be Miss Paloma Wiggins, Jack Wooten, Brailford Nightingale, Miss Louise Huguley, Paul Smith, Dick Matthews, Miss Barbara Davis, Gordon Lee Sullivan, William Rogers, Miss Freddie McDowell and Billie Diver.

In a skit entitled "While You Wait," the following will take part: Miss Marion Converse, Miss Susan Hardy and Stuart Barnes.

The finale of the program will be another one-act comedy, the title of which is "Romantic Business." The cast includes Willard Deane, Miss Margaret Grace, Miss Joyce Stover, Fred Phillips, Miss Catharine Green, Bill Scott and Miss Dorothy Dunn.

At intermission music will be provided by the Darlingtonians—Denny Duvall, Misses Elizabeth Jackson, Hughie Cleckler and Pauline Bower.

PILES

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Suffering

If you think a surgical operation is the only way to get rid of itching, bleeding or protruding Piles, it's because you haven't heard of the harmless internal medicine discovered by a prominent Western physician.

After years of study, Dr. J. S. Leonard found the cause of Piles to be internal congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the hemorrhoidal veins flabby; the bowel walls weak; the parts almost dead. Right away the doctor set to work to find a real internal remedy. He succeeded, and after prescribing it for 1,000 patients, with success in over 900 cases, he named his prescription HEM-ROID.

The doctor wants every Pile sufferer to benefit by his discovery, and so there will be no doubting or delay Jacobs Drug Stores and druggists everywhere are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee of money back if it does not cure Piles in any form.

So why waste time on external treatments or think of an operation when HEM-ROID tablets are guaranteed—(adv.)

REGIMENT AT BENNING HAS NEW COMMANDER

Colonel W. E. Persons Twice Rose From Ranks of U. S. Army.

FORT BENNING, Ga., March 2.—(AP)—Colonel William E. Persons, a graduate of the old army school of hard knocks and experience, today took over command of the infantry school's demonstration regiment here today.

Enlisting in the Second Georgia Infantry for service in the Spanish American War in May, 1898, he was soon promoted to first sergeant of Company A of that regiment. Less than six months later he was commissioned a second lieutenant and was launched on a long and successful army career.

A break in the service record occurred in the latter part of 1898 when he was mustered out of service, but he returned to the army in 1901 to the Philippine Islands in September, 1899. There he started again from scratch, serving from private to second lieutenant. The commission held until he was mustered out of service in 1901 to accept a commission in the regular army.

Subsequent promotions made him first lieutenant in September, 1904; captain in August, 1913; major in 1915; lieutenant colonel in July, 1920, and colonel in January, 1931.

During the war Colonel Persons served with the Eighth division at Camp Fremont, California, and was about to embark for France with his men when the war ended.

Colonel Persons held command of the United States transport Republic which recently returned from Europe. He was in command of the Republic when it was torpedoed by a German submarine in the North Atlantic. $37,000 NEW BUILDINGS FOR CEDARTOWN 'HOME'

CEDARTOWN, Ga., March 2.—Contract was awarded today to the Daniel Lumber Company, of LaGrange, for the building of a $25,000 boys' dormitory and a $12,000 dining hall for the Ethel Harpist home. Work is to begin at once and the buildings are to be completed by August 1. Insofar as possible, local labor will be used.

These buildings will each be two-story brick with latest interior appointments. They will be east of the present main building of the home, the dining hall in between and so constructed that they may all be joined together at a later date if desired. The present main building will be given over to the girls' dormitory.

This addition to the home is made possible through a donation of $25,000 for a boys' dormitory by Mrs. Henry Pfeiffer, of New York, president of the New York Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church and honorary vice president of the national organization, at a national convention of the society held in St. Louis. This was followed by a $12,000 gift by her husband for the dining hall. At a victory luncheon recently held at the George Washington hotel in New York, pledges were made to furnish these buildings. The Ethel Harpist home is named for its founder, Miss Ethel Harpist, of this city, who is in active charge of the institution and is sponsored by the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church. Although this society has a number of similar institutions, this is the only "home" supported by this society, which unfortunate boys and girls, including tiny tots, are taken in without compensation.

WALTER HIERS BURIED AT GLENDALE, CAL.

GLENDALE, Cal., March 2.—(AP)—Walter Hiers, the fat funny man of the screen, was buried yesterday. Hiers, a native of Cordele, Ga., died Monday in Hollywood of pneumonia. He was well known in the film colony and had a big following among moviegoers.

North Georgia News May Publish Edition on Paper From Native Pine

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 2.—(AP)—Publication of the North Georgia News at Blairsville on newspaper made of native pine wood is the objective of experiments planned by the Georgia paper laboratory in Savannah.

The experimental work will be done by Dr. Charles H. Herty, director of the laboratory, with a cord of pine sent here by the Blairsville newspaper. If everything turns out as Dr. Herty expects, the cord will produce about a ton of newspaper.

The laboratory has produced pine pulp paper in small sheets for printing programs and the like but newspaper print has not been made thus far.

W. J. Wellborn is editor and publisher of the North Georgia News and the experiment was arranged through his co-operation.

Athens Rotary Club Publication Goes to All Quarters of Globe

ATHENS, Ga., March 2.—Every man to his hobby. Sam Woods, who sells an oil company's products here during the night, spends the night gathering news from the four quarters of the world for the weekly publication, Rotary News, published by the Athens Rotary Club. In all probability this venerable has the widest international contact of any news sheet in the south. In 1920 the Athens Rotary News was called the best Rotary publication in the sixty-ninth district by Joel Chandler Harris Jr., son of the famous author of "Uncle Remus." At that time Mr. Harris was editing Rotary in Atlanta. Quoting from Rotarian Harris: "The Athens Rotary News is 'the best club bulletin.'"

"The editor has made the Athens Rotary News home-like, bringing into it the personal touch of the members of his club. The bulletin is always filled with interesting news about the members." A recent weekly letter from Rotary International states that the Athens Rotary News is "the best club bulletin."

International contact started with him back in 1925, when Dr. Harvey Cabaniss was president of the Athens club, with Abit Nix as district governor. Reading the convention's proceedings covered the interests of the Athens Rotary News is "the best club bulletin."

These contacts made with three outstanding Rotarians, in different parts of the world, started a correspondence that has now reached 22 countries of the world. At the Chicago convention in June, 1930, Charles Kingston, Herbert Coates and Editor Woods met for the first time. Herbert Coates asked that Rotary News be sent to Fred W. Sibley at Saltburn by the Sea, Yorkshire, England. Mr. Sibley was an additional contact, and in a letter to the Athens club, he mentioned that his only child, a son, Douglas Sibley, was embarking for New Zealand for the purpose of locating in that country. Editor Woods, replying to this letter, advised Sibley to look up the Athens club, and he, Douglas Sibley, who headed large business interests in that country besides gold mining, Charles Rhodes kept open house every Friday for his friends gathered for round-table discussions on Rotary matters. To this home Douglas Sibley called with his father's letter, and Rotary News, as an introduction, Rhodes wrote Editor Woods regarding young Sibley's visit, stating that he was impressed with the English lad.

Right after this meeting, the elder Sibley wrote Sam Woods that Charles Rhodes had set his son up in business. This was during the Vienna Austria international convention with Fred Sibley meeting for the first time Abit Nix, who was attending the convention as an international director. Fred Sibley told Abit Nix the story of his personal experience of international contact with Nix's club and a year later, while visiting in Brno, Czechoslovakia, he sent the Athens club the flag of that country, which now hangs in their clubroom. Mr. Sibley, the latter part of this year, is to retire from business and will go to live with his son at Auckland.

Charles Kingston, lord mayor of Brno, who he did, for a most enjoyable reception for a week-end. In June of this year, a week before the international convention, to be held at Boston, Lord Mayor and Mrs. Kingston will be guests of Athens Rotarians and will attend the convention with the Georgia delegation from Savannah by boat to Boston.

The Athens publication has on its exchange list, Jugoslavina, bulletin, London Rotarian, Rotary Wheel publication of Great Britain and Ireland; Life and Work, London; Graz, Austria; Grazier, Dresden, Germany; New York, Llandudno, Wales; Saltburn-by-the-Sea; Beacon, England; Tokyo, Japan; Spokes, Switzerland; secretaries' bureau from Zurich, Switzerland; Edinburgh, Scotland; India, Rangoon, and a Spanish weekly from Uruguay.

Rotary News also exchanges its publication with 26 Georgia clubs and clubs represented in every state to Cuba, China and five clubs in Canada, to the international president of Rotary and all directors and one club in Australia.

LAFAYETTE OFFICIAL ORDERED SUSPENDED

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 2.—(AP)—John C. Knox, for the past six years recorder and treasurer for the city of Lafayette, has served legal notice on the Bank of Lafayette, declaring that he is the legally elected city treasurer and warning them not to cash checks against the city unless signed by him.

This action follows suspension of Knox from his official post after discovery by auditors of an alleged shortage of $4,200 in his accounts. The suspension was ordered by the city attorney and no legal action against Knox has been taken. At the same time W. J. Jennings, who has been assisting Knox in keeping his books and records, was also ordered suspended.

R. D. Dyer was placed in charge of the city funds following the suspension of Knox.

No action on the tangle has yet been taken by the city council, which will hold its next meeting on Monday. No members of the city governing body will talk about the affair, and it is impossible to foretell what, if any action will be taken at that time.

At the same time Knox had the legal papers served on the bank he also had papers served on city council, although the purpose of these was not disclosed. In both cases the papers were served by the sheriff.

Knox is about 27 years of age and has held the position of recorder and treasurer for the past six years. He was elected to the position and is an extremely popular official.

2 LEGAL TREASURERS IN HANCOCK COUNTY

SPARTA, Ga., March 2.—At the present time this county has two legal treasurers, both being under bond and legally sworn in. This unusual situation was brought about by the appointment of E. G. Latimer as treasurer last fall to fill the unexpired term of Treasurer W. E. Wiley, who was forced to resign when his bondsman canceled his bond after paying the full amount of $1,150,000, to cover funds on deposit in a closed bank.

Mr. Wiley had been elected by the people to serve four more years, beginning January 1, 1933, and after several weeks' delay succeeded in making his bond and was later sworn in by the ordinary. The county commissioners have not relieved the temporary treasurer, so the county now has two.

The tangle will probably be cleared up next week when the commissioners hold their regular monthly meeting, as one finance officer can handle all of the funds now coming into the county treasury, it is said.

Georgia News Told in Brief

Port News. SAVANNAH, Ga., March 2.—(AP)—Arrived: City of Birmingham, Boston via New York; Gloucester, Philadelphia; Fairfax, Jacksonville, and sailed for Baltimore.

Sailed: Mentor, Br. Far East; Polarine, Baton Rouge.

Teacher Elected. WAYCROSS, Ga., March 2.—Miss Dorothy Stovall has been elected a member of the faculty of the cross city schools, succeeding Miss Virginia Kirkland, who resigned to get married. She has been assigned to the third grade at Gilchrist Park school.

Play Presented. TENNILLE, Ga., March 2.—Sponsored by Miss Mary Pentacost, teacher of the public school of the Tennille high school, and Professor W. W. Fowler, principal and coach, the Stapleton Woman's Club presented a play, "The Tumbler," at the school auditorium. The play, a comedy-drama in two acts, was directed by Mrs. Stapleton.

Editor Is Speaker. MONTZUMA, Ga., March 2.—Johnny Jones, editor and publisher of the Fort Valley paper, was the principal speaker at the weekly Kiwanis luncheon at the clubhouse Wednesday, J. D. Riley, mayor of Fort Valley, was also a guest of the club. Attractive numbers of the program were given by Misses Frances Richardson and Ann Collier. A union service of the churches of Montzuma will be sponsored by the Kiwanis Club on Sunday night, when Dr. J. A. Thomas will preach and the club will attend in a body.

War On Loiterers. MACON, Ga., March 2.—(AP)—Aroused by a series of safe crackings, Macon police are waging war against loiterers and "suspicious persons" and have arrested nearly a score of transients. Most of them are still in custody pending investigations and a few have been convicted of charges ranging from carrying a concealed weapon to loitering.

Pageant Director Honored. MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., March 2.—Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Reeson entertained at a reception in the mansion Monday night honoring Dr. Amanda Johnson, writer and director of the bi-centennial pageant presented at the Georgia State College for Women; the History Club of the college, who assisted in staging the pageant, and Mayor J. W. H. Woodin Resigns Business Connections

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP)—The incoming secretary of the treasury, William H. Woodin, severed his business connections today in preparation for his new duties.

Late in the day he resigned as a director in the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Earlier he had resigned as chairman of the board of directors of the American Locomotive Company. He also gave up all other business connections with the locomotive company and its subsidiaries.

Directors of the American Car & Foundry Co. today accepted Mr. Woodin's resignation as president and named Charles J. Hardy, New York attorney, as his successor. William H. Woodin Jr., son of the secretary-designate, also has left for Washington to attend the inauguration with his family.

Gore maintains winter homes at Miami and Orlando, Fla., and publishes three newspapers in that state. He operates an insurance business in Chicago.

CONTRACT AT BENNING GOES TO MISSOURIAN

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—The war department announced today award of contract of $450,000 for the construction of barracks at Fort Benning, Ga., to M. E. Gillioz, of Monette, Missouri.

WOMAN AT SAVANNAH SAID 122 YEARS OF AGE

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 2.—(AP)—A story published by the Savannah Evening Press says Mrs. Belle Ryans will celebrate her 122nd birthday Saturday.

The Press described her as "the oldest Savannah woman" and said a reporter found her sitting up in bed smoking a pipe.

SAVANNAH MAY LEVY CITY AUTOMOBILE TAX

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 2.—The mayor and aldermen of the city of Savannah and the representatives in the general assembly from Chatham county, assisted by the senator from the first district, have fixed it so they can collect a tax from an automobile owner or the owner of a truck or motor-cycle.

The law, which has just been signed by the governor, decrees that the city can assess a tax against each type of carrier outlined not to exceed $2. It is expected that city council will soon adopt an ordinance which will make the collection of this new tax legal.

GEORGIAN ADVOCATED FOR TREASURER OF U.S.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—A Georgia democrat—William S. Elliott, of Canton—who served as register of the treasury under President Wilson, is being pushed for appointment as treasurer of the United States under President-elect Roosevelt.

Already the Georgia house members who will serve in the next congress have signed a petition asking William H. Woodin, to be secretary of the treasury, to select Elliott as Representative Wood, who also lives in Canton and who circulated the petition, expressed hope that Woodin would give consideration to Elliott in the next congress.

He recalled that Elliott attempted to resign as register in 1921 but that his resignation was not accepted until 1922. He added that since then Elliott has occupied himself with banking in Georgia, serving as president of the Georgia Bankers' Association and vice president of the Georgia County Bankers' Association.

ALUMNI OF MERCER BANQUET MARCH 10

THOMASVILLE, Ga., March 2.—A banquet of the alumni of Mercer University is to be held in Thomasville on the evening of March 10, under plans just completed. Following the dinner a program will be given by Judge R. C. Bell, of Cairo, judge of the Georgia supreme court, will be the principal speaker. He will be introduced by former Mayor D. Roy Hay, of Thomasville, an old Mercer boy. Colonel A. B. Conger, of Bainbridge, has consented to act as toastmaster. The event congress has also named Congressman E. E. Cox is expected to be present as well as Dr. Spright Dowell, president of Mercer.

BAYER SPEED!

The quickest relief for a headache is two tablets of Bayer Aspirin. You've heard doctors say this. If you have tried it, you know! The tablet bearing the Bayer cross dissolves very rapidly and brings rapid relief. There is no known medicine that works quite like Bayer Aspirin for the awful head and face pains of neuralgia. There is nothing with quite the same effectiveness in relieving the pains of rheumatism.

But a more important advantage to the tablets of Bayer manufacture is their absolute safety. Their purity and uniformity are tested thirty-six times! Bayer Aspirin does not depress the heart, does not upset the stomach, does not have any ill effect; you could take it every day without harm.

Time counts when you're in pain—and safety is always important. Stick to genuine Bayer Aspirin!

And Bayer means Safe!

3 ARE 'FAVORITES' FOR WALSH POST

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—

Who will be named attorney-general to take the place from which death snatched the able Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, before his term began was a subject of much speculation at the capitol today with a prevalent impression that President-elect Roosevelt would survey the situation carefully before making a decision.

Democratic leaders said there was no need for hasty action and, if necessary, a nomination could be deferred until next week when the senate will still be in special session to confirm appointments.

Eight names, headed by Swager, of Kentucky; Arthur F. Mullen, of Nebraska; and Homer S. Cummings, of Connecticut, were mentioned at the capitol as the list from which Mr. Roosevelt will select a nominee. Others talked of were Felix Frankfurter, professor of the Harvard Law School, Cambridge, Mass.; former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri; Huston Thompson, of Denver, former trade commission chairman; Senators Wagner, New York, and George, Georgia, and Guy A. Thompson, St. Louis.

Mullen, one of Roosevelt's convention managers at Chicago and democratic national committeeman from Nebraska, was in Washington today and had planned to confer with Walsh. It was understood to have offered Mullen an assistant attorney generalship.

Mullen would not discuss his own prospects. He was believed also to have been considered by Mr. Roosevelt for a circuit judgeship in the north central states, but no definite information on what job he may get was available.

Shelley is a former member of congress and in addition to being a close Roosevelt adviser has aided in formulating a program for cutting government expenses.

Cummings, former chairman of the democratic national committee, figured prominently in the speculation, as did Huston Thompson. The understanding was that the Colorado senator and Governor Ed C. Johnson, of Nebraska, would recommend the former trade commission chairman.

Advocates of former Senator "Jim" Reed, relentless prosecutor of senatorial investigations, held him a favorite prospect, although Reed's health and age—he will be 72 next November—were a possible barrier.

Sylvia Thompson, University of Washington freshman, sued the Renier National Park Company and a news reel company for $20,000 damages allegedly suffered when kicked in the face by a snail, which she said, while motion pictures were being taken.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatic pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengue (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "dead" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you. But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengue by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic balms, mostly cheap imitations of Baume Bengue made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

SIMPLE TO GET RID OF ACID STOMACH NOW

Almost Instant Relief This Way

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

According to many authorities, some 80% of the people of today have acid stomach. This is because so many foods, comprising the modern diet, are acid forming foods. It usually makes itself felt in headaches, nausea, "gas," "biliousness," and most frequently in stomach pains that come about thirty minutes after eating. So you can easily tell if you have it.

Now Quickly and Easily Corrected

If you do have acid stomach, don't worry about it. You can correct it in a very simple manner. Just do this. It will alkalize your acid soaked stomach almost immediately. You will feel like another person.

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

Neutralizes Food and Tobacco Acids a few minutes after taking.

In Legislative Halls

By BEN COOPER. The bill enabling payment of $26,331,533.42 to the counties in repayment of money spent in road construction was signed Thursday by Governor Talmdge. The machinery is thus set up for paying the money in 10 annual installments of 10 per cent each beginning March 25, 1936. Chatham county will receive the largest sum, $1,316,079.46. Fulton will receive $1,132,926.08. Certificates whereby payments are to be made shall not be discounted at a rate exceeding 8 per cent, under the law. Governor Talmdge has signed a bill by the Richmond delegation requiring all persons to take a law examination before practicing law. A bill authorizing employment of a county business manager of Bibb county and placing control of practically all Bibb county officers under the county commission also has been signed.

Shelby Myrick Jr., 11, son of the representative from Chatham, Thursday was appointed a page by Speaker E. D. Rivers, preserving a record of service as a page in the house or senate since he was five years old. Representative Myrick first served in the house in 1912 and since then has held eight years in the house and two terms in the senate.

The Sims bills amending criminal procedure with a view of speeding up the courts and correcting defects in the laws were reported favorably on Thursday by general judiciary committee No. 2 of the senate. The bills allow amendment of indictments in criminal cases, provide joint trial of defendants, provide for the removal of judges from office, permit filing of bills of particulars in aid of indictments in lieu of quashing the indictments, provide waiver of indictment by the state on demurrers to criminal indictments and provide joinder of several cases against the same defendant.

The county and county matters committee of the senate has approved the Sims bill allowing payment of taxes on one piece of property where one f. fa. has been issued against several pieces of one property owner.

Penitentiary committees of the house and senate will leave at 8:30 o'clock this morning for an inspection trip. The committees will visit the state prison farm at Milledgeville and the new prison farm in Tattall county. The Milledgeville state penitentiary committee will leave on its inspection trip this afternoon.

Support of house bill 117, a garnishment law amendment, was urged Thursday by J. L. R. Boyd, secretary of the Atlanta Thrift Society, in letters sent to "unqualified friends of wage earners." Boyd said that "certain collection and credit agencies in the larger cities are moving heaven and earth to defeat this bill by amendments or otherwise. However, thousands of bona fide merchants and practically all employers have approved it unqualifiedly. They waive all questions of some possible future inconvenience in some isolated case in favor of the freedom it gives to wage earners to resist unconscionable claims of credit rackets."

Mrs. Tolbert and Representative Hendricks, of Muscogee, Thursday told a delegation from Columbus that they would support a bill on a request to support a bill cutting terms of Columbus city commissioners. Representative Thompson, of Muscogee, said that he will introduce the bill Monday. The terms would be reduced from five to two years, subject to a referendum.

Representative Luther Still, of Fulton, Thursday offered in the house a bill providing for election of chiefs of the Atlanta fire and police departments by general council for four-year terms. The house Thursday passed the Sims bill providing for methods of appeal from the municipal court of Atlanta, and also passed the Fulton delegation bill authorizing the Fulton county board of education to borrow money from the state to the amount anticipated from the state and from local school taxes.

Governor B. M. Miller, of Alabama, Thursday was introduced to the Georgia senate by President Hamilton

COORASAUO FUEL SEEKING SCIENTISTS

16wan Says Grain Alcohol

Makes Better Fuel Than Plain Gas.

AMES, Iowa, March 2.—(AP)—

Large-scale use of grain alcohol as a motor fuel component is seen by Iowa State College scientists as a potential major factor toward farm relief.

Economists, chemists and engineers of the college, studying conversion of agricultural products into alcohol for use, see a chance to remove a maximum of 350,000,000 bushels of corn and other cereals from the food market.

This, says Dean Charles E. Friley, of the industrial science division of the college, would be "enough to produce definite increase in prices of agricultural products."

Tests of gasoline-alcohol blends of various compositions have in general proved satisfactory from all standpoints, Dean Friley reports.

College engineers who tested the fuel in autos reported smoother engine performance, greater flexibility, more power and acceleration, and greater anti-knock properties.

Experiments say, however, that more tests in cars of different characteristics, will be necessary before any definite conclusion regarding mileage per gallon can be made.

Though the greater part of this country's industrial alcohol is now manufactured from blackstrap molasses because of its lower production cost, particularly along the Atlantic seaboard, Friley says, the use of alcohol in motor fuel in the corn belt would "create a market of major importance" for the grain variety of alcohol.

Costs of a blended gasoline-alcohol fuel would "compare favorably," Friley says, with prices of present-day premium gasolines.

JAPANESE TROOPS SWEEP UNCHECKED TOWARD OBJECTIVE

a fight, for when they came within sight of the city Shi Wen-hua, the Chinese commander, already had hoisted the flag of surrender, and he was willing to throw in his lot with General Mogi and join in the final advance against Jehol City.

Reports from that capital this evening said two Japanese planes had bombed the new airfield near the city. All through the previous stages of the advance, the Japanese had been the aggressors, but they had not been the aggressors in the main force.

General Tang Yulin, provincial governor of Jehol, has given no sign of his intentions. The Japanese said they were waiting for the Chinese to make a move. The Japanese said they were waiting for the Chinese to make a move.

CHICAGO, March 2.—Graybeards in their thirties, sixties and seventies—run the land, a wide survey has disclosed.

Recently came warnings from Professor William Fielding Ogburn, chairman of the National Committee on Social Trends, that increasing longevity and decreasing birthrate were tending to make America a nation of old folks.

And though some authorities express concern that this trend is not an unmitigated blessing, the records available reveal that folks of the fifties, sixties and seventies continue in the saddle of the entire range of important mundane activities.

In the sphere of government: President Roosevelt is 51 and Vice President Garner is 64, former President Hoover and former Vice President Curtis are 58 and 73, respectively.

The average age of the Hoover cabinet was 53, ranging from 48-year-old John L. Spaulding, secretary of the treasury, to Charles F. Adams, 68, secretary of the navy.

And although the average age of the cabinet of Roosevelt is 57, or one year younger than was the cabinet of President Taft, the average age of the cabinet of President Taft was 57, or one year younger than was the cabinet of President Taft.

Graybeards Rule the World, Government Survey Shows

CHICAGO, March 2.—Graybeards in their thirties, sixties and seventies—run the land, a wide survey has disclosed.

Recently came warnings from Professor William Fielding Ogburn, chairman of the National Committee on Social Trends, that increasing longevity and decreasing birthrate were tending to make America a nation of old folks.

And though some authorities express concern that this trend is not an unmitigated blessing, the records available reveal that folks of the fifties, sixties and seventies continue in the saddle of the entire range of important mundane activities.

In the sphere of government: President Roosevelt is 51 and Vice President Garner is 64, former President Hoover and former Vice President Curtis are 58 and 73, respectively.

The average age of the Hoover cabinet was 53, ranging from 48-year-old John L. Spaulding, secretary of the treasury, to Charles F. Adams, 68, secretary of the navy.

ROOSEVELT GETS DOWN TO BUSINESS UPON HIS ARRIVAL

may offer opportunity for economic and other talk.

While arrangements were being made for them to meet again tomorrow, the president cancelled his passage from New York Saturday for Panama and the Pacific coast.

It was stated formally at the White House that Mr. Hoover would spend several days in an unnamed New York hotel attending to "personal matters" and to affairs incident to three charitable organizations founded by him. He hopes to catch the next boat to Panama.

What the president and president-elect may discuss at the White House tomorrow was not disclosed by presidential aides, but in entirely reliable quarters it was stated that the two men had several "personal matters" to talk over and that the conversation might extend into the night.

Mrs. Roosevelt will accompany the president-elect and the call has been set tentatively for the late afternoon. They probably will meet in the red room, where Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hoover already have held two historic talks.

Possibly tea will be served and the visit may extend for half an hour or more. In the past it has been the custom for the wives of the incoming and outgoing presidents to remain with their husbands during such a call, but all plans for tomorrow morning were tentative and somewhat indefinite tonight.

As these arrangements gradually took shape, the White House maintained its tempo of high speed activity.

A long line of visitors and conferees awaited him at the executive offices when he arrived nearly an hour later than usual, and continued steadily throughout the day.

Outside, workmen rushed to put the finishing touches on the expansive grandstands in front of the White House, built for the inaugural parade. Loudspeaker equipment was tested by radio companies, filling the White House grounds with sound, while workmen festooned the president's seat of honor with live green vines to which artificial flowers were attached. The sound of hammers was heard inside the White House also as packing for the Hoovers' departure was continued.

Mr. Hoover was to have sailed from New York Saturday evening aboard the liner Pennsylvania, which was to have been held for him several hours beyond its customary sailing time.

Within the past 48 hours, White House aides denied formally reports that the president might cancel his seat of honor with live green vines to which artificial flowers were attached. The sound of hammers was heard inside the White House also as packing for the Hoovers' departure was continued.

The last day at home in New York was uneventful. The challenging national situation confronting him received attention at a morning conference with William H. Woodin, his secretary of the treasury, but there was no announcement about this meeting by either.

Mr. Woodin deferred his departure for Washington until tomorrow. A big army truck stood outside the East Sixty-third street home most of the day as soldiers stripped the white stone front building of its belongings for transportation to Washington.

He left his town house shortly after 4 p. m. and was guarded by some 700 officers on his trip to Jersey City, N. J., where the special train was waiting.

Mr. Roosevelt is going into the White House after perhaps the most unusual series of events that ever occurred to any president-elect, but his calm and untroubled attitude still prevailed as he stepped into his car for the ride across the Hudson today for his special train.

Two weeks ago the target of an assassin in Miami for the last few days an intense domestic situation has been forcing itself upon the public officers; today his attorney-general and chief of staff.

Apparently determined to hold his fire until he lifts his right hand and takes the oath on the front steps of the capitol on Saturday noon, Roosevelt is keeping absolute silence about his program for the "new deal," but his friends predict quick action.

James A. Farley, new postmaster-general, and George H. Dern, of Utah, the secretary of war, and their families were with Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt on the special train.

Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the president-elect, and the children, Elliott and Jean, were with Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt on the special train.

Mr. Roosevelt's family, including Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Wallace, wife of the secretary of agriculture, Louis M. Howe, Roosevelt's secretary, Gus Genrich, personal aide, and William Green, state treasurer, Basil D. O'Connor, Roosevelt law partner; Joseph Daniels, Raleigh (N. C.) publisher; Frank Walker, treasury treasurer, and Mrs. Walker; Robert S. Jackson, party secretary; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morzenhau Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. William H. Howes, of Huron, S. D.; Professor Raymond Moley, economist; and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Morgan, distant relative; Vincent Doolittle, assistant to Farley; Charles Hand, of New York; Eddie Dowling, actor; Martin H. McIntyre, secretary; Arthur Mullen Jr., of Nebraska; Henry Kanne, New York, and the personal secretarial staff—Miss Margaret Lehend and Miss Margaret Donnelly, Miss Grace Tully and Miss Frances McKenney.

The president-elect was given a rousing send-off. Streets were lined with cheering citizens, although Mr. Roosevelt was so surrounded by motorcycle police and other guards that few could see him.

The New York Police band played "Happy Days Are Here Again," the Roosevelt campaign song, as the president-elect's party arrived at the ferry, where the song was played again as the train pulled out.

SECOND SUIT FILED AGAINST CANDLER

Court Order Halts Extension to Zoo; $45,000 Damages Asked.

A second suit for damages against Asa G. Candler Jr., making a total of $45,000 sought by two neighbors in as many days, and a temporary injunction to halt any building or work at the zoo featured the court attack on the capitalist's private menagerie Thursday.

Walter B. McLellan, through the law firm of Spence & Spence, asked $25,000 damages in a suit filed in DeKalb superior court Thursday. On Wednesday Mrs. Mary L. Smith, who lives across Briarcliff road from the Candler estate, filed suit for $20,000 through Attorneys Allen Post and Mark Bolding of the law firm of Howell, Heyman & Bolding.

Filing of the suit by McLellan was followed by the restraining order preventing any further expansion of the zoo. It was made returnable before Judge John B. Hutcheson, of the Stone Mountain circuit, at 9 o'clock March 25.

Both Mrs. Smith and McLellan alleged in their petition for damages that the zoo—a huge thing on the lawn of the exclusive Druid Hills estate—has caused depreciation of their property, McLellan alleging in his complaint that the beasts in the menagerie cause dust "laden with disease germs" to settle on his home large quantities. They also contend the terms of Candler's deed have been violated, because the section was restricted to humans and a zoo is another matter.

Mrs. Smith, in her petition filed in DeKalb city court, alleged that the peace and quiet of the Briarcliff residential section has been disturbed by "the roaring of lions, trumpeting of elephants, screaming of hyenas, chattering of monkeys, etc., etc."

IMPROVEMENT NOTED IN U. S. BANK REPORT

Less than the usual declines in retail and wholesale trade coupled with increased textile activity and building and construction awards are bright spots in the Federal Reserve bank's monthly review of conditions in the Sixth Federal Reserve district.

The consumption of cotton, the monthly report pointed out, in the United States as a whole, in the cotton-growing states and in the sixth district increased from December to January and was greater than in January for the past two years. Production of cloth and orders for both cloth and yarn increased from December to January and production and orders of both cloth and yarn mills were greater than in January last year.

Of building contracts the review said: "The total for the month (January) was $14,325,272, and the increase was due to the inclusion of some of the contracts for a bridge to span the Mississippi river at New Orleans, the total cost of which is estimated at around $12,000,000."

Department store sales, the review continued, showed a less than seasonal decline from the holiday trade. In 1932 the decline from December to January was 53.5 per cent, while this year it was 52.4 per cent on a daily average basis.

Pig iron production in Alabama declined in January, and the output of coal in Tennessee and Alabama was also lowered.

THEFT OF ELECTRICITY LAID TO NINE NEGROES

Charged with stealing electric current from the Georgia Power Company nine negroes were bound over Thursday afternoon by Judge A. W. Callaway in recorder's court under bonds ranging from $200 to $500. The negroes were arrested Wednesday night.

Royal Rogers, of 14 Fort street, negro, was held under $500 bond and was fined $50 for rewiring the houses of the other eight negroes in order to eliminate the meter, according to police. Rogers charged a fee of $2, it was said. The arrests were made by Special Officers W. L. Rolander and V. H. Elsberry and City Officer E. S. Acree.

FINAL RITES TODAY FOR CLIFTON MUNDY

The funeral of Clifton Mundy, well-known Rockmart attorney and former mayor, who died Wednesday at a private Atlanta hospital, will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon in Rockmart. Interment will be in the Rockmart cemetery.

Mr. Mundy, who was 42 years of age, was a brother of Representative W. W. Mundy, of Cedar town. He was active in city affairs and had been a member of the Rockmart board of education, the Chamber of Commerce and the Civic Club. Surviving are his wife; three small children; two sisters, Mrs. D. H. Young, of Rockmart, and Mrs. Mamie Powell, of Fort Worth, Texas, and two brothers, W. W. and J. E. Mundy, of Waynesboro, Ga.

ROOSEVELT GIVEN LIFE EXPECTANCY OF 17 MORE YEARS

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt will take over the world's most difficult job with a "statistical expectancy," based on the average age at death of the 29 deceased presidents of the United States, of living 17 more years.

Mr. Roosevelt is 51. The average span of life of the presidents has been 68.3 years, with longevity honors going to the earliest chief executives, John Adams, living to a grand old 90, tops the list, while James Madison, who reached 85, was second.

Thomas Jefferson, 83, was third and John Quincy Adams, 80, fourth.

No other presidents have reached the four-score mark. William Howard Taft, who died at 72, was the longest lived of the chief executives since James Buchanan, who attained the age of 77.

Mr. Roosevelt takes on the burdens of a White House regime with his physicians pronouncing him in splendid health and his intimate associates declaring that he has a temperament "made to order" for withstanding terrific strain.

PITTSBURGH, March 2.—(AP)—Bishop A. W. Leonard, of Pittsburgh, district of the Methodist Episcopal church, announced today that Rev. Dr. Schuyler E. Garth, St. Petersburg, Fla., has been appointed pastor of Christ Methodist Episcopal church here. He succeeds the Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, who left Christ church in November. Dr. Garth assumes his new duties April 2.

ALABAMAN ARRESTED IN DEATH OF WIFE

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., March 2.—(AP)—Arthur Pitts, 40, was charged with murder today in the death of his 16-year-old wife after the coroner returned a finding that she died of strangulation.

Pitts was taken into custody yesterday after his wife's body was found in a creek. He contended she fell from a footlog in crossing the stream and was drowned.

The father of seven children by a former marriage, Pitts was ordered held without bond. Six of his children are under 15 years of age.

COTTON BILL FATE NOW IN BALANCE

Smith Is 'More Confident' After Conference With President Hoover.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—Conflicting indications as to whether President Hoover will sign or veto the Smith emergency cotton relief bill today came from White House visitors, while the chief executive himself maintained a strict and studied silence upon his eventual action.

Secretary Hyde, who conferred at length with Mr. Hoover concerning the measure, told newspapermen late that he felt the bill "falls to touch 4,500,000 farmers," and indicated he was unfavorable to it.

Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina, author of the measure, also conferred with the president, and while not saying he had received assurance it would be signed, asserted he was "more confident" after his conference.

The chief executive referred the bill for study not only to Hyde, who said he would make a detailed investigation, but also to the farm board. The secretary of agriculture said there was no chance of immediate action upon it, and failed to indicate whether his report could be returned by noon Saturday, when the president leaves office.

Measure's Provisions.
The Smith measure would seek to cut cotton production sharply by means of a huge pool of all government-financed cotton. Into it would be poured approximately 1,500,000 bales owned by the farm board's co-operators, and 750,000 owned by the department of agriculture.

The cotton pool would be placed in charge of a board of six men chosen from the agricultural department. Growers of cotton then would be petitioned to cut their production immediately by 30 per cent or more from the standpoint of quantity, with shares in the pool allocated to each in proportion to the amount of their reduction. Profits would be given them from funds estimated to accrue from the difference in the price at present and the difference on August 15, under the decreased supply.

Huge Losses in Cotton.
A total of $3,000,000,000 has been lost by the cotton business since the start of the depression, Smith said, adding that if this sum could be regained even in part it would start the wheels moving faster.

In many of the depressions of the past, he asserted, cotton has "led the way out."

Secretary Hyde told newspapermen that he had been hopeful of action by congress upon his plan for the government to lease lands from farmers on agreement that none of their land would be planted in cotton, corn, wheat or other cereals. Such action, he said, now seems impossible.

He added that this had changed the situation, and that the Smith bill would be studied carefully, but asserted that it would touch only a comparatively small percentage of the farm relief problem.

Oxford Reaffirms Pacifist Attitude
OXFORD, England, March 2.—(AP)—In an atmosphere tainted by stench and tumult, the Oxford Union reaffirmed its position of three weeks ago and rejected by 750 to 128 a motion to expunge from the records its previous motion:

"That this house will in no circumstances fight for its king and country."

Police attempted vainly to maintain some semblance of order in the packed house as orators argued the motion, which drew fire from the London press and from members of the house of commons when it was adopted two weeks ago, 275 to 153.

Randolph Churchill, son of Winston Churchill, was among the members in the fight to expunge the motion. He was greeted with hissing and loud shouts, and then the hall was filled with the odor of stench bombs. It was ten minutes before he could proceed.

The union is a century-old debating club where young Englishmen are trained for political careers.

Court Holds Invalid Florida Medical 'Law'

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 2.—(AP)—The state supreme court today upheld the circuit court for Hillsborough county in declaring the 1931 legislature failed to pass a bill to regulate practice of podiatry and that as a result there is no such law in Florida.

The supreme court affirmed the lower court order discharging J. H. Skaley from custody following his arrest on charges of violating the purported law regulating the practice of podiatry.

The court found that the 1931 senate passed a bill to regulate practice of podiatry, while the 1931 house passed a bill to regulate podiatry—the first term meaning medical care of the feet and the second term meaning medical care of children. It therefore held the bill was not enacted into law.

R. F. C. LOANS URGED TO PROTECT SCHOOLS

Educators Advocate Federal Planning Council To Avert Depressions.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 2.—(AP)—Reconstruction Finance Corporation money is needed to save the schools, American educators decided today.

The department of superintendence, National Education Association, by resolution asked legislation permitting loans to states and local districts for schools and advocated creation by congress of a national planning council to coordinate economic and industrial activities towards averting depressions.

Sharply reduced school funds at present jeopardize the principle of equal educational opportunity for all, the department declared, calling for a revision of taxation systems with state and federal governments sharing more in the cost of education. This was urged to eliminate unfavorable situations in local school districts having financial troubles.

Co-ordination and unification of federal agencies dealing with education, more stressing of methods for peaceful settling of international disputes, and greater emphasis on social studies were urged.

Communities with lacking programs for boys and girls lacking employment were commended, as was the American Federation of Labor for its support of public education.

The apparent desire in some quarters to penalize the schools in comparison with other governmental functions in expenditures was deplored, but need for strict economy in schools and the inevitability of depression effects on educational institutions were recognized.

Original Roosevelt Man.
This train is not without its celebrities. John A. McDuff, Atlanta lawyer, who styles himself the original Roosevelt man, is on board. With him is John A. Baggett, a Dormanville, Ga., who has a big flag which identifies him and which he hopes to march down Pennsylvania avenue revealing the original Roosevelt man. John is all decked out for the occasion. He has new clothes from head to foot and his sartorial splendor rivals that of Beau Brummel.

Governor Talmadge received a telegram from Atlanta revealing that the house voted almost 2 to 1 in favor of the emergency relief bill, and was immensely pleased with the vote. "I feel that Georgia should have the $3 tag," the governor said. "I am sure that this vote will convince the senate and those favoring a higher tag will now agree to a compromise which will carry out the spirit of my campaign pledge."

HUGE PARTY LEAVES ATLANTA FOR CAPITAL
Just two days from the final realization of the sweeping victory they helped the democrats to win last November, more than 2,000 Georgians and two special trains left Atlanta Saturday morning for Washington to attend the inauguration of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Pulling out behind the Crescent Limited, Governor Eugene Talmadge's special train, with an estimated passenger list of 1,000, carried the high-ranking officials of the state and the governor's staff. Minutes before the train left, many of the next president's Georgia friends.

Resides these two trains, the Crescent carried many who are going to the inaugural festivities without portfolio or commission. From other cities in Georgia, including Savannah, indications were that many would fly to the inauguration today or early Saturday morning.

At the Terminal station here there was a commingling of democrats from both Alabama and Louisiana with his special party came two hours ahead of the Alabama special, which had as one of its passengers Miss Jo Bailey, daughter of T. Jeff Bailey, former Atlanta newspaperman, who is going to Washington as sponsor of the Birmingham police band.

Colonel Sandy Beaver, president of the Riverside Military Academy and Governor Talmadge's chief of staff, was host at a breakfast at the Piedmont hotel Thursday morning for the staff and their wives.

Adjutant General Lindley Camp was in charge of the governor's special. The second train, carrying the Meriwether and Warm Springs friends of President-elect Roosevelt, was in charge of Mayor Ed Doyle, Dr. R. B. Gilbert, Judge Henry H. Revill and J. Hope Tigner, of Atlanta.

In military pomp and splendor, the staff boarded the governor's special while the Fort McPherson band played patriotic airs, lending a martial spirit to the departure of the Georgians—a sort of vest pocket edition of what is to follow in the national capital today and tomorrow.

Ahead of the special went Colonel Beavers' private automobile, painted white, with the great seal of the state and a great American flag. Adjutant General Camp and Colonel Beaver will ride down historic Pennsylvania avenue.

Atlanta's navy unit, commanded by Lieutenant Harry P. Dobbs, was already en route to Washington on the destroyers Bainbridge and Lamson.

EXECUTIVES TELL OF BOND PROFITS

Senate Committee Closes Stock Market Hearings Until Next Congress.

By SAM B. BLEDSOE.
WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—A succession of vice presidents and former vice presidents of the National City Company—subsidiary of the second largest bank in the world—today told a senate committee of that concern's profitable financing in handling mergers and bond issues back in the boom days.

The securities that came out of the transactions have sunk to feeble values since.

There was testimony that the present market price of a $32,000,000 bond issue of the Lautaro Nitrate Corporation, whose parent company is in Chile, is less than the difference between the $32.75 at which the bonds were received and the $30 at which they were sold to the investing public.

At the close of today's hearing the committee recessed its investigation until the next congress.

Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, lingered longest today on the circumstances which led to the merger of three firms to form the National City Company, of Battle Creek, Mich.; the Oliver Chilled Plow Works, of South Bend, Ind.; and the Hart-Tarr Company, of Chicago, Ill.

Out of this consolidation came the Oliver Farm Implement Company.

Stanley A. Russell was the vice president who related how this happened, and he said that Mason B. Starring Jr., a director of the National City Company, began the negotiations and that Starring received a substantial share of the profits.

"I don't know whether Starring told his company stockholders that he shared in the profits," Russell said. "Do you think it ethical to withhold such information?" Pecora asked.

"If I had been in Mr. Starring's place, I would have disclosed the information," Russell replied, adding that for all he knew, Starring might have revealed it. The testimony also showed that Samuel White was a director of one of the firms and that the company which he headed, the National Republic Company, Chicago bank affiliate, also shared in profits. The City company's part in these was about $1,285,000.

Russell said the City company got 21,000 shares of the farm equipment company's common stock and put a value of $10 a share on it. Shortly after the stock went on sale on the New York Curb Exchange at more than four times that figure, it was testified.

"Who promoted the sale of that stock?"

"I don't know, but I am certain we had nothing to do with it," Russell answered.

Much of the afternoon session was taken up by a scrutiny of the participation of the company in an issue of Lautaro Nitrate bonds, also floated in 1929.

P. Morgan and Company and Guggenheim Brothers participated in this financing, although the latter turned their 10 per cent interest over to Lehman Brothers, the firm which the present New York governor was a member until 1928.

Bonus in Lautaro Stock.
Morgan had a 25 per cent interest, but the concern failed to show an amount of bonus of 152,000 shares of Lautaro common stock which the City company received.

"There is nothing to show you told Morgan about this stock bonus," Julius Silver, who was conducting the hearing, told Ronald M. Byrnes, former company vice president, who was on the stand.

Byrnes replied.

He was unable to testify, he said, whether the Morgan firm knew of it. The City company made $21,000,000 on that transaction and Morgan about $30,000.

Joseph V. Ripley, company vice president, told of assisting in the sale of the bonus. The Boeing Airplane Company, the Boeing Air Transport, Inc., and the Pacific Air Transport into the Boeing Airplane and Transport Corporation in the fall of 1928.

GRADUATE OF EMORY IS KILLED IN PLUNGE

Dr. William B. Tatum, of 1916 Class, Dies in Fall in New York.

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP)—Dr. William B. Tatum, a graduate of Emory University, of Atlanta, was killed today in a fall from a third-story window of his Brooklyn home. Police tentatively recorded the case as "jumped or fell."

Dr. Tatum, who served his internship at Montgomery, Ala., before entering the medical corps during the war, was hailed to court by his wife last December on a charge of third-degree assault and in January on a disorderly conduct charge. Both the charges were dropped.

Police were informed that Dr. Tatum had made plans to leave today for the home of his parents in Center, Ala., "for a long rest."

Dr. William B. Tatum was graduated from Emory University medical school in 1916, entering the institution in 1912 after being graduated from the University of Alabama. He was a son of Dr. Samuel C. Tatum, of Center, Ala., and a member of Theta Kappa Psi honorary medical fraternity. He married Miss Myrtle Beater, of Ocean, N. Y.

Problems Discussed By Insurance Heads
CHICAGO, March 2.—(AP)—Insurance commissioners from several states met behind closed doors at a downtown hotel today to discuss their common problems. They declined to comment on the meeting but promised a statement later.

The group in conference comprised the executive committee of the National Convention of Insurance Commissioners, under the chairmanship of J. B. Thompson, Missouri commissioner. At their invitation several executives of insurance companies joined the gathering.

A statement was promised from the conference later.

Other members of the committee of state commissioners were G. S. Van Schaick, New York; Theodore Tamm, Ohio; Garfield Brown, Minnesota; M. L. Brown, Massachusetts; Theodore Thulemyer, Wyoming; and John G. Kidd, Indiana. Ernest P. Douglas, of Illinois, while not a member of the executive committee, was also present.

State Senator Quits

After protesting against "rising anarchy and dying democracy" in a dramatic speech on the floor of the state senate at Indianapolis, Senator Chester A. Perkins, South Bend democrat, resigned from office. Perkins charged that the administration of Governor Paul V. McNutt has been "running the state on a shoestring" through the legislature and denying him his constitutional rights to speak on them.

RAINEY QUALIFIED FOR SPEAKERSHIP

Elevation Is Culmination of Long Rise in Party Councils in Capital.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—A man who isn't afraid to tell the house it is running wild—Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois—is the man the democrats tonight chose for speaker in the seventy-third congress.

A bold veteran of 28 years in the house, rugged of physique, picturesque in flowing white hair and black Windsor tie, his elevation today from the floor leadership to the rostrum marked the culmination of a long rise in the councils of his party.

Although nearly 75 years old, Rainey has shown surprising vigor during his leadership and displayed a fearlessness in attacking his colleagues on their stand on various issues. Only last year he took the floor and assailed them for failure to support the unsuccessful democratic sales tax plan. At that time, he said:

"This house, I realize, is a runaway horse. You are adopting measures which will ruin the country. You are opposed to communism every one of you, and so am I. But let me tell you, gentlemen, during this session you have put the cap on all of it at the present time."

"We have made a longer step in the direction of communism than any other country in this world ever made except Russia."

Advocate of Recognition.
Frequently during his career he has clashed with the conservative element in his party. For a number of years he has advocated the recognition of Russia. He made a trip to Soviet Russia several years ago and upon his return said that the United States could obtain much trade now being denied them if the soviet government were recognized.

Some of Rainey's ideas coincide with those of President Roosevelt in his party. For a number of years he has advocated the recognition of Russia. He made a trip to Soviet Russia several years ago and upon his return said that the United States could obtain much trade now being denied them if the soviet government were recognized.

As a member of the powerful ways and means committee, Rainey became a student of tariffs and taxation. He assisted in the formulation of the Underwood tariff act during the early part of the Wilson administration and was one of the prime movers in the establishment of the income tax system by the federal government.

Several years ago, Rainey was looked upon by his conservative colleagues as a radical. He proposed much legislation designed to relieve the farmers and to benefit the common people as contrasted with price reduction designed to help industry and the wealthy class.

Elected in 1903.
Born at Carrollton, Ill., his home, on August 20, 1860, Rainey first came to congress in 1903 from the twenty-first district of Illinois. He served continuously until 1924, when he was defeated in the Harding landslide, but was returned to the house the following year. He is a graduate of Amherst and the Union College of Law, in Chicago. He was married to Ella McBride, of Harvard, Neb., in 1886. His wife is a former school teacher and lecturer, serves as his secretary. Rainey practiced law in the district of Illinois, before entering politics.

When he came to congress he moved to a farm near Carrollton. His district is one which was represented by Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas. Rainey has served longer in the house than any democrat north of the Mason-Dixon line and longer than any democrat in the house since the secession of 1861. He is a national house of representatives Illinois ever had.

Massacre of Jews In Germany Hinted
LONDON, March 3.—(Friday).—(AP)—The London Daily Herald said today that plans are complete for an anti-Jewish pogrom in Germany on a scale as terrible as any instance of Jewish persecution of 2,000 years. The paper ascribed its information to a "highest source," otherwise unidentified.

The Jewish population of Germany, totaling 600,000, is under the shadow of a campaign of murder which may be initiated within a few hours and cannot at the most be postponed more than a few days, The Herald said.

Tens of thousands of Jews, the newspaper continued, have been secretly indicted as communists and Marxists and already are marked as victims, and the list is growing hourly.

An official spokesman for Chancellor Adolf Hitler's national socialist government in Germany said earlier this week that rumors of an impending massacre were "completely groundless."

Frances Perkins Outlines Plans as Labor Secretary

Woman Cabinet Member Eager To Take Up New Duties, Unalarmed by Federation's Attitude.

By WALTER TRUMBULL.
NEW YORK, March 2.—Frances Perkins, first woman ever to be selected for a cabinet position in the United States, sat behind her large desk smartly costumed in a black dress and hat and outlined her ambitious plans as the next secretary of labor.

Miss Perkins, gesturing with extraordinarily well shaped hands and locking and unlocking long, artistic fingers, also made reply to the statement of William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, that he and his organization were bitterly disappointed by her appointment.

"Mr. Green and the American Federation of Labor are entirely within their rights," she said. "I am very glad they expressed themselves openly and frankly. It creates a more wholesome situation and do not in any way regard it as an expression of ill will against me."

Miss Perkins went on to say there was nothing in Mr. Green's statement which would indicate that the American Federation of Labor would not co-operate with her department and declared she believed it would be amicable co-operation. She said she and Mr. Green were friends of long standing.

ing and that she held him in high regard.

Will Go to See Him.
"If he or any other official of the Federation of Labor does not come to see me," said the pleasant, fine looking woman who was born in Boston 50 years ago, "I shall certainly go to see them at the earliest opportunity."

With her sure selection of words and enunciating clearly in a full, pleasant voice, Miss Perkins added that she could not help but feel gratified by the fact that the heads of labor in 35 states had not only sent her their congratulations, but assured her of their support. This, she believed, was the result of the knowledge and mutual confidence developed in the past 15 years.

Miss Perkins wears gold-rimmed nose glasses for reading purposes and has a habit of taking them off and twirling them on their chain. Her long thumbs would denote determination to any peevish, but like any other woman, when she closes her fist for emphasis, she frequently folds her thumb inside. She has brown, alert eyes, soft, brown hair, which waves back under her hat, and an extremely sensitive and mobile mouth. She also has a sense of humor. She said, for example:

Just Feels "Odd."
"I certainly shall not try to be a school mistress to congress," and again, when she was asked how she felt concerning her appointment: "I feel a little odd; although you won't know what I mean by that word, unless you happen to come from New England."

Some one asked her just what the word did convey. "Odd," she replied, "to a New Englander, just means odd. There isn't any other word for it."

In regard to her plans for her department in Washington, Miss Perkins asserted she would build up the statistical department. She intends to do so along the lines suggested by a committee to be appointed by the American Statistical Association. She was emphatic in stating that no reports on unemployment would be colored. She said they would be "prompt, regular and candid."

She further intends to revamp the entire federal employment system. But, she also said, the government alone can not govern, and she realized all government in the United States must be a combination of federal and state powers.

Miss Perkins said she was in favor of minimum wage boards, to be established in communities where each situation could be considered separately. A minimum wage of one community might not be the minimum wage needed in another. She spoke highly of a bill which touches this subject introduced in the New York legislature at the instance of Governor Lehman. On the matter of her immigration policy, Miss Perkins said:

Must Study Policies.
"The Bible I have to go by is the Wickersham report, which recommended boards to exercise discretion under proper safeguards, in the handling of aliens. I am going to make a study of the immigration policy, as well as many other things which I must learn."

Aside from a basic minimum wage, Miss Perkins believes firmly in shorter hours and at least one day's rest a week. From this latter, she thinks there should be no exemptions, and she believes a real enforcement of such a measure would provide more work than is now realized by anyone.

Miss Perkins is actually Mrs. Paul Wilson, but her official name in Washington undoubtedly will be Frances Perkins. That is the name by which she is known and the name under which she has done her long and splendid work. It will simplify matters immeasurably for her to continue to use it.

The name has been confirmed by the New York senate and the state comptroller. She signs and gets her checks under that name and, she says, the banks never have refused to cash one yet.

Able Administrator.
Miss Perkins never was a candidate for the post of secretary of labor, but there is no doubt in the minds of those who know her that she will administer it ably. Asked as to her social life in Washington, she replied: "I cannot imagine in times such as these that the social life of the secretary of labor will be very extensive. But," she added, "I always like to see my friends."

Miss Perkins plans to send a good deal of her time in the field. She hopes to see and study for herself labor conditions and problems in the larger centers of population, especially those with which she is not already familiar.

Being a New Englander, she does not like to discuss her personal affairs, and, in fact, she will not. She has given up playing tennis as too strenuous, but will play golf, "if it is convenient and the course is not too far away." She likes art, not especially etchings, often reported, but paintings made with a bold brush. She does not like telephones, radios, automobiles, airplanes or anything which makes a noise. She never, she admits, has been in an airplane and, although she may possibly fly to Washington, has no real desire to do anything of the kind.

Frances Perkins is a courteous, extremely able person, who will do any job she tackles well.

Hartsfield, Sims Clarify Attitudes on Legislation

A plea for harmony in matters of local legislation to avoid consuming time of the Fulton delegation in purely local wrangling to the exclusion of matters of state-wide importance in which Fulton is vitally interested, was made Thursday night in a statement by Representative William B. Hartsfield.

Senator Walter A. Sims, of Atlanta, who had announced his intention of "killing" bills of the local delegation, gave out a statement outlining his position in local legislation in explanation of his stand in the split with the Fulton members of the house.

Representative Hartsfield's statement, including the view that there is need for some sort of home rule legislation, was as follows:

Charges Big Lobbyists.
"I do not believe the people of Fulton county want me to allow local squabbles to interfere with my duty in the matter of state-wide legislation and tax bills now pending, in which this great county is more concerned than any other portion of our state."

"Local legislation in the house requires the unanimous consent of the delegation and in the case of Atlanta it requires the consent of both the Fulton and DeKalb delegations or six men. Many things I may personally favor may never see the light of day on this account, and my colleagues are similarly situated."

"The lobbyists of the capitol are full of local groups, each trying to sway members of the delegation one way or another, and often for selfish purposes and sometimes with the deliberate intent of promoting discord."

"Out of this muck of conflicting views I have tried to do what little I could to reconcile and bring all to a common viewpoint. The people are the innocent sufferers when public officers adopt any arbitrary stand and refuse to reconcile and agree for the public good."

"The need for some sort of home rule legislation, which will forever remove these troublesome matters from the general assembly, was never more apparent."

"There is such a constitutional amendment now pending in the house. The authors have agreed to allow me to amend it by providing that local governments shall never be allowed to tax or bond themselves without legislative supervision, and when this is done the bill becomes entirely acceptable and I intend to fight for its passage."

"The matter of the state's finances is of grave concern to Fulton county, which gave over a fourth of the bill. In addition, general tax measures are now pending which are of vital importance to our great county and which involve the very life or death of our business interests and thousands of our taxpayers."

"All good legislation is a matter of mutual agreement and compromise and no official has the right to try to rule or ruin. For my part I purpose to try to get along with all of my colleagues, both in the house and senate, for the public good."

Deplores "Wrangling."
"To be continually jockeying around for political advantage and making faces at each other simply results in no substantial service to the people—lowers the dignity of the office and subjects the Fulton delegation in the house and senate to the ridicule of the balance of the legislature."

"I realize that under existing con-

HOUSE REPUBLICANS PROMISE CO-OPERATION

But Statement Does Not Call for Support of Roosevelt Program.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—Republican co-operation with the democratic administration's attempts to work for the "common good" when it takes office in two days was pledged tonight by Representative Snell, of New York, G. O. P. leader in the house.

"The republicans in the house," said his statement, "meet the new president not as a partisan opponent but as the head of our common government, taking office under circumstances of tremendous difficulty."

But the statement did not go so far as to promise support of the new president's program; nor did it even hint at the concerted republican drive, already begun at the recent house conference, to obtain control of the congress that will be elected next year.

Snell, being backed by many republicans for actual leadership of his party, said:

"We share the universal regret at the sudden death of Senator Walsh. His loss, that of a highly trusted advisor, adds another complication, which we all regret, to the situation which President Roosevelt faces. For death to invade the ranks of his cabinet at this time is a most distressing blow of fate."

"The new administration may be assured that in all its efforts to restore the confidence of the American people in themselves it will have the loyal support of the republicans of the house. This is no time for partisan sniping or for party war. Rather let us all unite in a common purpose to end the economic evils which we now face."

"While the republican members of the house of representatives are loyal and devoted republicans, they are

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

Similar promises were made by the democrats when the last session of congress began.

2 Republicans Consent To Help Roosevelt Aids

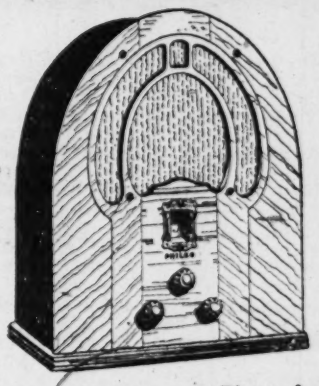

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—Two ranking treasury officials in the present administration will hold over after the democrats take office Saturday.

Arthur A. Ballantine, under-secretary, and James J. Douglas, assistant secretary in charge of fiscal affairs, have consented to remain until their successors familiarize themselves with their work.

Ballantine has been devoting virtually all his time to the banking situation while Douglas has had charge of the internal revenue bureau which, on March 15, will collect the 1932 income taxes.

That's why St. Joseph's is Safe and Fully Protected Against the Destructive Influence of Moisture

You can never be sure of the full effectiveness of aspirin that has been prematurely exposed to moisture in the air, because this moisture often causes unprotected aspirin to decompose and disintegrate in its journey from maker to consumer.

Be safe, be sure that the aspirin you get is always genuine, always pure, always full strength and always fully effective. Demand St. Joseph's Aspirin, the original, genuine, pure cellophane-wrapped aspirin. Its moisture-proof cellophane wrap keeps out moisture and seals in its original purity and full strength.

Remember, too, that regardless of higher price, there is positively no aspirin that dissolves more quickly in the stomach or brings more prompt relief from pain and colds than St. Joseph's Genuine Pure Aspirin.

Hix-Reinking Rites Solemnized At Salvation Army Home Here

Creating wide interest in Salvation Army circles in Atlanta yesterday was the marriage of Adjutant Thelma Hix, of Atlanta territorial headquarters, to Adjutant Fred Reinking, of St. Louis Men's Social Service Institute.

Mrs. Reinking has for the past four years been in charge of the Salvation Army life-saving guard work in the 15 southern states. She also has had charge of the Christmas toy shop for the past two years and has been very active in Atlanta social service circles.

The wedding service was solemnized by Commissioner Alexander M.

Damon, southern territorial leader, at the Salvation Army emergency home on Washington street at 12:30 o'clock.

Adjutant Reinking is known as one of the most successful men's industrial officers in the central territory. He has opened many of the army's centers of work in the mid-west and also several of the southern institutions. He has been highly instrumental in bringing a better understanding of this branch of the army's activities before the public. He and his bride left for a honeymoon trip through Florida, after which they will return to St. Louis.

Miss Dorothy Pick Will Visit Here

Miss Dorothy Pick, of Winnetka, Ill., the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pick, arrives in Atlanta on Saturday to visit Mrs. Paul Warwick at her Peachtree road residence. DON'T TRIFLE WITH COMMON CONSTIPATION

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation gets its grip on a person almost unawares. It often starts with such little things. Headaches. Listlessness. Bad complexion. Unpleasant breath. If unchecked, it may seriously impair your health.

Fortunately, you can avoid this danger by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of iron for the blood.

Biological tests demonstrate that the "bulk" in bran is similar to that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than taking unpleasant patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Serious cases, with every meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

NANCY PAGE

Here's a Delicious Chocolate Cake
BY FLORENCE LA GANKE.

The P-T. A. were meeting in the school auditorium. The speaker was a home economist who was scheduled to talk on "Better Meals for Less Money." The entertainment committee decided to serve refreshments following her talk. Nancy had been asked to make her famous chocolate cake which was not an expensive one but which always made such a hit.

The cake called for melted chocolate. Nancy was just in the midst of melting it when a neighbor came in. "Do you bother to put the chocolate in the upper part of a double boiler to melt it, Nancy? I always melt it in a frying pan right over the fire." The chocolate people advise against that method. They say the melted chocolate has better flavor and consistency if melted over hot water, so that's the way I do it. After all, it never can burn, this way and the upper part of a double boiler is not much harder to wash than a frying pan.

Here is Nancy's recipe—two cups sifted cake flour, one-half teaspoon cup butter or shortening, one cup sugar, two squares or ounces baking chocolate melted, one egg, one teaspoon vanilla and three-quarters cup milk. Nancy creamed the shortening, added the sugar and the egg well beaten. Then she added chocolate and vanilla. The flour, salt and baking powder were sifted together and added alternately with the milk. The cake was baked in a moderate oven and iced with fudge frosting. Two squares chocolate and two-thirds cup milk were heated in upper part of double boiler. Then putting pan directly over the fire she added two tablespoons light corn syrup and two cups of sugar, few grains of salt. The mixture cooked until it formed a soft ball. Two tablespoons butter and one teaspoon vanilla were added. Nancy cooled this to lukewarm and then beat and spread on cake.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: Please have a say about the anonymous letter-writer. It is frequently said that people in public life receive so many anonymous letters that they get case-hardened to them. But it is not so with private individuals. The stab in the dark never ceases to annoy us and make us indignant too. S. A. A.

ANSWER: The most amusing thing about the anonymous letter-writer is that he seldom remains anonymous. Most of us know our enemies; that is private individuals. If anyone tells you of an anonymous letter that he has received, almost invariably he tells you whom he suspects of having written it. The public man hasn't the same opportunity to fasten the blame on an individual but as you suggest he gets case-hardened to receiving such communications and it doesn't matter so much to him who the authors of them may be.

Just as the criminal frequently drops his cap, his pencil, or some other incriminating evidence at the scene of his crime, so the person that would hide behind anonymity usually drops some tell-tale clue either in the letter or in a subsequent personal contact. But even before the clue is found, the cowardly masquerader has drawn suspicion to himself. We instinctively recognize his sneaking tendencies in our acquaintances and friends. You can look into the eyes of a sincere person and know he is sincere. You can hear him talk and be convinced of his truthfulness. You can watch his reactions to people and events, and measure his personal integrity. You can observe his method of dealing with people and know surely that he can be trusted.

By the same tokens we look into the eyes of a sneak and know he is a sneak. We hear him talk and every time he opens his mouth he betrays his sincerity. We watch his reactions to people and events and we get a good line on his dishonesty, we look at him as he deals with his fellows and measure his cowardice. Then we are ready for him. When he drops the clue we march right to his front door to accuse him. Not literally, perhaps, but figuratively.

The anonymous letter-writer is in a similar position to the incarcerated criminal. He is shut in by his cowardice and his deceit. He comes out into the open because of his own inhibitions. Then he must saw his way out in the dark or stick a knife into the guard if he is to get out. He is more often than otherwise detected in his feeble effort. Then pity him.

Cowardice is a contemptible weakness and, oh, how the brave man does despise a coward! At least, the man that is born brave despises him. But the brave man that is not born brave, the man who has overcome his fear feels a profound pity for him. Your anonymous letter-writer is at heart a coward. He is more tormented by the consciousness of his cowardice than he can torment you by the exhibition of it. Then forget him. This is the kindest thing you can do for him and the most comforting thing you can do for yourself.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: For two years I have been in love with a certain boy, whom my parents do not like. He drinks and they think that is cause enough for forbidding me to see him again. Lately I have met a boy whom my parents like and they would like me to marry him. But I don't love him and know I never can. Which one would make me happiest? BLUE EYES.

ANSWER: Neither one of these boys would make you happy. Don't marry a man you can't love, even to pacify your parents. Perhaps this paragraph copied from the lips of a wife in a novel will help you to see the folly of trying to get happiness out of a marriage with a drinking man.

"No, darling, it's not any better. It's never going to be any better. I know that now. Tommy can't help it. One night he comes home drunk, surly and obstinate; the next night drunk, silly and sentimental; the next night drunk, argumentative and critical; the next night drunk, savage and abusive—but always drunk. I can definitely count on that! I never know what mood he will be in—whether I am to be upbraided for imagined indifference to him and his work (little enough he does of it) or he is pestered with pretenses of affection that neither of us feel—but I can always be sure of one thing: He will be drunk!"

I believe that novel from which this sentence was taken, was written by a physician and what a wife doesn't know about a drinking man, a physician does know. Heed the warning of your parents, dear child, and the warning of your own heart as well, and wait until fate sends you another opportunity that is less filled with gloomy prospects.

New York Vogue checks dandruff

MARY WILLIAMS popular on Broadway

"No wonder this method is so popular with girls I know; it is so simple and does such amazing things!" This is the kind of compliments New York girls are paying this method so many are using to make hair soft, vigorous, lovely. The cost is trifling. It takes almost no time. A few dashes of Danderine on your brush whenever you arrange your hair. Nothing more is needed! The crust of dandruff is dissolved in a hurry. Scalp is soothed, cleansed, toned. Hair stops falling; is promptly encouraged to grow longer, thicker, more abundant! The first application of Danderine removes that oil film, brings out the full color of your hair; gives it more lustre and sparkle than brilliantine. How soft, fluffy and easy to dress Danderine makes the hair. How wonderfully it holds the hair in place!

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Extraordinary Play

Occasionally a hand is dealt at the Contract table that seems to defy all the principles of correct play as laid down in the textbooks and as exemplified by master players of the game. For instance, we have all mastered the principle of finesse, which is a maneuver for position in order to limit or perhaps entirely eliminate losers in a certain suit. Of course, any maneuver for position in Bridge involves the question of entries, and the tactics of play must be governed by the exigencies of the occasion. Thus, in playing a hand at a suit bid, if the opening lead reduces the security of our trump force—as by forcing a trump from the Declarer's hand, the player playing the combined hands may be forced to devise rather startling tactics to assure the safety of his contract.

An illustration of this occurred recently in an unusual deal in a Duplicate game at Crockford's Club, New York, in which generally a game contract in spades was reached, but only one Declarer, Mr. Huntington Norton, found a way to make the hand.

West Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:
South West North East
1♠ 1♠ 1NT
Pass 2♦ Pass 3♠
2♥ 2♠ Pass 3♠

The bidding requires no special comment. While the spade suit is rather weak, the pattern of the West hand certainly requires a disclosure of all three suits, and when East supports the spade bid, the bid for game is quite obvious.

The next play was to lead the Queen of diamonds, and again north won with the King. Possibly he would have been wiser to have refused the trick, as it was certainly an occasion arose.

The next play was to lead the Queen of diamonds, and again north won with the King. Possibly he would have been wiser to have refused the trick, as it was certainly an occasion arose.

Miss Elizabeth McGahee and Miss Judy Heston, sponsors of the Atlanta chapter of DeMolay, will be hostesses Sunday afternoon to the members of this chapter at open house. Members of DeMolay and their friends are invited to call from 4 until 6 o'clock at 516 Ponce de Leon avenue.

Piano Recital.

A piano recital featuring pupils of Anna Mae Farmer, assisted by students of the Muriel Wilhoit School of Dancing, will be offered by the Orpheus Music Club Monday, March 6, in Hall 2, Chamber of Commerce building at 8 o'clock. The selections will include the "Magic Fire Spell," from Wagner's "Die Walkure," "Miserere" from "Il Trovatore," Mozart's "Fantasia No. 1," and "Pilgrim's Chorus" from "Tannhauser." The players include six-year-old Ragolda Jacobs, talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isador Jacobs, who will make her first public appearance, and Eleanor Dickerson, Mildred Humphries, Willie Ray Butler, Naomi Humphries, Louise Hodges, Louise Whitworth, Martha Winkelman, Elsie Winkelman, Marie Winkelman, Pearl Feldman, Blanche Krugman, Catherine Walker, Louise Fortson, Inez Theos, Pauline Wilson and Roland Tomlinson. The Muriel Wilhoit School of Dancing will offer five dance novelties, featuring Virginia Hendry, Margaret Morgan, Frances Martin, Lucie Byrd, June Lankford and Eleanor Crowe. The public is invited.

La Liga Panamericana.

La Liga Panamericana met Wednesday evening in the clubroom on the mezzanine floor of the Georgian Terrace hotel. The feature was a film on "Havana" with an explanatory lecture made during its showing by Silve H. Godinez, who is a native of Cuba. The film was made by Mr. Godinez while in Cuba, and he has captured the spirit of ancient and modern Havana.

Manuel Lacayo and Horacio Clare spoke on the countries of their birth, which are respectively Nicaragua and Panama. The speech of Max Rives on Venezuela will be published at an early date in La Revista Escolar Panamericana.

Miss Jean Beck danced a tap number and gave three recitations, including "Roses," "The Proposal" and "The Little Boy's Prayer." Miss Margaret Newbury played "O Sol Mio" and "Glow Worm" on the xylophone, accompanied by Miss Lois Shankle on the piano. Ed England, a graduate of Tech High school, sang "Weary River" and "Play, Fiddle, Play." Miss Rose West played the accompaniment for the dances and songs.

Matrons' Luncheon.

Matrons' Club of 1933 meets Saturday, March 4, at 2 o'clock in Parlor D, Ansley hotel. Luncheon will be served. Mrs. Pauline Dillon and Mrs. Geneva Foddrill, grand instructors, will be guests of honor. Matrons desiring reservations for the luncheon may telephone Miss Margaret Giles, Raymond 7728, or Mrs. Janie Lou Garmon, Hemlock 3723.

Speakers at Berry.

MOUNT BERRY, March 2.—Sam Higginbottom and Miss Ethel Higginbottom, agricultural teachers in India, where Mr. Higginbottom is in charge of a chain of native Indian schools, were speakers in chapel today before students of Martha Berry College and schools. Work of American missionary teachers and ministers in India was discussed and the field for workers there told of by the missionary, who has spent more than 20 years in the foreign field and made a wide reputation for his great work.

Entertains at Tea.

Numbered among the interesting small parties of the week was the bridge-ten given Wednesday by Mrs. Henson Estes Bussey at her Fairview road residence in Druid Hills. The tea table was centered with an effective arrangement of pink sweet peas and valley lilies and peach blossoms were used in the living room.

Phi Mu Anniversary.

Phi Mu Alumnae chapter will observe Founder's Day Saturday afternoon, March 4, at the home of Miss Elsie Mullin, 1084 St. Augustine place. This is the eighty-first anniversary of the founding of Phi Mu at Wesleyan College and all Phi Mus are invited to the service followed by a tea.

Wesleyan Club.

The fifth group of the Atlanta Wesleyan Alumnae Club will hold a social meeting at Davison-Paxon's tea room Saturday, March 4. Mrs. Winfrey Winn is group leader. Luncheon will be served at 12:45 o'clock.

RIFT OVER CHOICE FOR COURT POST DENIED BY GEORGE

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—Senator Walter F. George, democrat, Georgia, tonight smilingly affirmed to newspapermen that he and his junior colleague, Senator Russell, had rival candidates for the office of United States district attorney of the southern district of Georgia.

George said he was committed to Howell Cone, of Statesboro, former state senator, while Russell is urging the appointment of Judge Saxton Daniels, of Claxton.

"Both are mighty fine men," George said.

He agreed with Russell's statement there was no personal conflict between the senators, explaining each just happened to be committed to different candidates.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 3, 1933.

A NEEDED REFORM.

The suggestion of the Lanier investigating committee of the house that the state department of agriculture be abolished and its duties transferred to the State College of Agriculture proposes a long-needed reform in the governmental structure of the state.

For years the agricultural department has been a political sore spot. Every commissioner has been charged, whether justly or not, with "machine" building activities. The constant demoralization in this department has communicated itself to other branches of the state government, bringing to these other departments a like diminution in efficient service.

Session after session of the general assembly has devoted much time which should have been applied to the consideration of important legislation, to the consideration of the politically muddled affairs, the lack of economy and the inefficiency of the agricultural department.

The make-up of the department is such as to present a constant invitation for the building of a political machine, or to lay it open to such a charge.

The transfer of the duties of the department from the political to the educational branch of the state government would once and for all eliminate the efficiency-destroying element of politics.

The State College of Agriculture is not in politics, and under the administration of the educational system of the state by the board of regents there is no way that it can be. Under the direction of its able and efficient staff, the work for the betterment of the farming interests of Georgia would be uninterrupted and scientifically gone about.

As brought out by the Lanier committee, the make-up of the department now is controlled almost entirely by political considerations. Ability and knowledge of farming problems weigh but little in the selection of the personnel of the department and its field forces. Instead, these jobs are given out, almost without exception, as political plums for services rendered or for assistance desired.

With the work transferred to the State College of Agriculture every job would be filled from the standpoint of ability to perform the duties required, as is the case in the appointment of the highly efficient corps of farm and home demonstration agents working under the direction of the college.

The college is fully equipped to take over the additional duties which would be put upon it—being far better qualified to do the work than is the politically-involved department of agriculture.

Through its farm and home agents it is in intimate touch with farm conditions in every section of the state and could utilize these agents in the performance of many of the tasks now being done by the department.

It has on its staff agricultural experts, as against the political experts of the department, and it has laboratories which will permit a more intelligent and worth-while performance of the duties which have been so half-heartedly rendered by the state department for the past several decades.

The proposed transfer presents opportunity to take a vital public service out of the handicapping and crippling influence of political control and place it in the hands of outstanding and nationally known experts who are demonstrating, day in and day out, their ability to better agricultural conditions in the state.

SENATOR WALSH'S DEATH.

The sudden death of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, removes one of the outstanding members of the incoming cabinet, deprives the democratic party of one of its ablest leaders and brings to an end a long public life marked by fearless service in the interest of the public.

Perhaps no man of his generation performed more continuous and conspicuous party and public service than Senator Walsh. An advocate of great ability, he was fundamentally progressive but entirely lacking in destructive radicalism.

Almost single-handed he pushed to a successful conclusion the Teapot Dome scandal investigation. During his long service in the senate he was a conspicuous figure in practically every debate of major importance.

As chairman of the Madison Square Garden and Chicago conventions it fell to Senator Walsh's lot to preside over two of the most epochal gatherings of his party. In both instances he showed a mettle and devotion to fair play which brought additional recognition to his outstanding qualities of leadership.

His death is a severe loss, both to his party and to the country, and is all the more regrettable in view of the fact that as attorney-general in President Roosevelt's cabinet he would have had an even wider field of opportunity.

ROOSEVELT CABINET LIKED.

General approval of the cabinet selected by President-elect Roosevelt is being expressed by the press of the country, regardless of section or political affiliation.

The sentiment is expressed concisely by the Boston Herald, which takes the position that "it is a reassuring cabinet, and the country will be relieved by the personnel."

The Herald is evidently led to express "relief" because of the fear that Governor Roosevelt's progressiveness would result in his choice of men with radical ideas.

The cabinet as a whole is a well-knit group of men of a type to increase confidence, both on part of the public and of the financial, industrial and commercial interests of the country.

Undoubtedly it is qualified to soundly and yet progressively lead in the difficult and delicate task of bringing about such readjustments as are necessary to a return of normal conditions.

The Barry incident teaches us that an old man easily fired by the heat of the moment is a senator's worst enemy.

Rich incomes now pay the tax formerly paid by liquor. Let's see; why do so many big men despise prohibition?

The difference between criminal and civil law is this: If you steal over a million, it's a violation of civil law.

"Cop unwittingly helps bootlegger," says a headline. Imagine an adverb alone making news.

One reason why people can't buy a new car is because the repair man will charge it.

Many a cotton planter is so poor now that he hasn't but six dogs to his name.

Statesmen are clever, at that. Note how they slash here and there with the pruning knife without ever cutting themselves.

In diplomatic language, "We cannot pay" means: "You won't dare do anything about it if we don't pay."

It isn't the cost of education that hurts. It's the cost of experimenting with cases that don't take.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Hermits.

The newly formed Hermits' Club, of Omaha, Neb., which admits only "practicing hermits" of 30 years' standing, might have stood a better chance of a large membership had it existed in England in the eighteenth century, when many country gentlemen of romantic tastes liked to have a "hermit on view" among the sham ruins and other "picturesque" touches on their estates.

The Duke paid well, but expected a lot in return, for the hermit had to undertake never to cut his beard, hair or nails and never to stray beyond the limits of the grounds. He was provided with a candle robe and with a mat and a hassock to sleep on, but the only other articles allowed in the hermitage were an hour glass and a Bible. Food was sent from the duke's kitchen, but the hermit was forbidden to exchange a word with any of the servants.

As infringement of any of these rules led to instant dismissal, the hermitage was frequently empty.

Goldfish To Work!

Bad news for a famous race of idlers comes from Tunis. After centuries of elegant and luxurious life, to which the Chinese introduced them, the goldfish are to be put to work. They are to be dumped out of their crystal bowls and ladies' boudoirs into the swamps and pools in Africa in the expectation that they will destroy the malaria larvae. In other words they come off the gold standard and enter the ranks of labor.

Whether they like it or not has not been ascertained, but it is better so than to be put in the frying pan. I should imagine. Not that goldfish are ever fried, but they are fried in the frying pan of life.

But the theme, the setting, of the studio at 5 o'clock and the beauty of the heroine, were all inspired by his friendship with the lovely artist who is one of the most glamorous women in professional life today.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

SO THAT'S HOW COLDS HAPPEN.

Far be it from this columnist to take exception to what any other columnist says, unless it is bad for the public health and the fellow says so solemnly. I like humor when I believe it does not take it seriously.

The man tells his readers about a ride some one gave him in a car that had the latest wrinkle in air conditioning. He reports that you can adjust the circulation of air in the car so that back draughts are prevented. So far we can find no fault with it. But then the gentleman says that millions of colds, especially in older people, are caused by the back of the neck.

Not content with that invasion of the health columnist's field, this omniscient one informs us that doctors will be interested in this new wrinkle for their patients' sake.

Finally the mention of millions ascertains that the common cold is the cause and the beginning of numerous fatal illnesses.

In short he tells virtually everything the wisest people know and believe is so. Who knows, perhaps some day this great philosopher will tell the doctors what the common cold is. No doctor or health author knows, so to tell, even if he thinks he knows.

Not until technocracy rules the world will anybody know where the ventilation leaves off and the draught begins. No one can draw the line between a current of fresh air that is ventilation—and a draught.

Aside from the smug notions of a lot of old fog physicians there is not even a consensus of opinion upon what constitutes an objectionable draught. Every little mind has a notion of its own about it, and the notion of the eminent physician or the health officer is of no greater weight than yours or mine.

Scientifically there is no ground to imagine a current of air that chills any part of the body surface produces any disease. A stiff neck, a lame back, a charleyhorse or general aches and pains of the muscles are caused, but that is not a serious illness. If you have some chronic disease such as chronic bronchitis, rheumatism, chronic nephritis, prostatic obstruction, Raynaud's affection ("dead fingers"), you are hypersensitive to any slight chilling and shivering will give you greater discomfort. Chilling is not a cause of any of these troubles.

For comfort's sake the ventilation of an automobile or any other vehicle in which people ride should be the best the engineers can contrive. But it seems unfair to the great automotive industry to blame the automobile for "millions of fatal illnesses."

Rather, I should say, the old family bus brought out no draught, it contributed much toward better public health records in the past 30 years.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Opened Cans as Containers.

Please tell me if leaving opened cans of such things as pineapples, peaches, etc., in the icebox is dangerous. (Mrs. V.)

Answer—The tin can is as safe a container as any other vessel.

Doctor Cured His Own Psoriasis. I had psoriasis from boyhood until I reached the age of 50. I cured it then in three months by living without sugar. I discovered the beneficial effect of sugarless diet on the skin condition when I was dieting for overweight. (Dr. H. M. G., retired.)

Answer—Thank you, Doctor. Many victims of psoriasis have reported much benefit from a diet largely vegetarian but including plenty of milk and cheese.

No School Acknowledged.

In your column, replying to a correspondent, you advocated vaccination as a preventive. Evidently you are of the allopathic school and therefore ready to exorcise the theories of Jenner. If it is a fact that unvaccinated persons are immune to cancer, this fact alone is of sufficient importance to condemn the practice of vaccination. (C. M.)

Answer—If there were reason to believe or even to hope that by going unvaccinated one could enjoy immunity to cancer, I'd be the first and the loudest to condemn vaccination. Friend, I could call you names that would make you just as angry as I make me to be characterized as a "path" of any kind. I think all so-called "schools" or cults or parties are ridiculous and any physician who accepts such a brand is an opportunist merely.

If There Is an Incendiary in Town, Will You Drop Your Fire Insurance?

By Robert Quillen

This is addressed to the parents of small boys. Let's suppose that the school boys attend is housed in a fire-trap. If the building should burn during school hours, nothing short of a miracle could prevent panic and tragedy.

If that should happen, certain officials would be morally responsible for the death of your sons. Perhaps you could hold them legally responsible. But that wouldn't bring your boys back to life.

You would hate the officials, of course, but part of the responsibility would be yours. If you had demanded protection for your boys, and thus aroused the sensible anxiety of other parents, the officials could have been persuaded to do their duty.

Why are literate and sensible parents so indifferent to the danger that threatens their sons now?

Despite our professed love of peace, we have had six major wars. In each of them our boys have been sacrificed by the thousand—slaughtered like sheep because responsible officials failed to provide reasonable safeguards to give them a fighting chance.

Now there is ever increasing danger of war with Japan, and again our nation is like a Samson torn of his locks.

Do you realize that America and the allies escaped many traps and achieved many successes by reason of their ability to intercept and decode Germany's messages?

There are thousands of Japanese who are masters of English. Where are the Americans trained to interpret and decode messages broadcast by the Japs?

And where are the ships to match Japan's fleet?

The war will be fought on the sea and in the air. And we simply haven't the equipment necessary to win it.

Of course we shall win in the end. Our superior wealth and greater resources will make ultimate victory certain. But many thousands of our boys will be sacrificed and many billions will be spent before we are ready to fight.

It is too late to prevent the threat of war. Our weakness has invited that. But it isn't too late to begin the building of adequate weapons of defense.

You may teach your boy not to pick a fight. But if a bully threatens him, it is shameful to let his hands.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

(Copyright, 1933, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 2.—They say a well known Hollywood girl is the heroine of "Cocktail Hour," the story James Kevin McGuinness has just written for Columbia. "Cynthia," the heroine, is pictured after a time as a woman who is not a very good actress. She is the heroine of the story, however, although the incidents of the story have nothing whatsoever to do with the circumstances of her life.

But the theme, the setting, of the studio at 5 o'clock and the beauty of the heroine, were all inspired by his friendship with the lovely artist who is one of the most glamorous women in professional life today.

Hollywood looks to "Gabriel Over the White House" as the most important story being filmed in its studios today.

Briefly it is the story of present-day America, an unimpeachable starvation, racketeering, and repudiation of debts by foreign governments. The president is the typical party politician who leads a cabinet doing and thinking everything but what it should think and do.

Instead of worrying about the pressing problems at hand, the cabinet is giving him the time of day for the British embassy. The news bulletins issued contain statements from the nation's head carrying the usual pure or government or thought of when they will be fulfilled.

The only one worried about it all is the president's confidential secretary, who prays for "Jud" Hammond to do something before it is too late. The president is in an accident—a mysterious fever or coma, which keeps him unconscious for weeks. When he emerges he is, apparently, a different man. He sets about the work of straightening out America. Runs the nation as he would run an army at war, and solves the problem of an America going to the dogs.

Walter Huston is "Jud Hammond" and Franchot Tone and Karen Morley supply the love interest. The author of the novel was too modest—or too cautious—to sign it. Walter Wanger gets the credit for buying it for a picture, Gregory La Cava for its direction, and Carey Wilson for its production.

The studio improvised on the author a trifle. Each time with most amusing results. Their improvisation even included an attempted assassination of the president and let the next day the newspapers carried the story of the attempt on Roosevelt's life.

The staff began to believe they could get ahead of local news of some of the more imaginative had the notion that they were possessed of second sight.

This film should cause a stir in the public mind, and it will. It is one of the forbidden themes here—communism, the government, and subjects being considered bad box-office.

BERLIN, March 2.—(AP)—A return to the spirit of imperial days was heralded today by the cabinet's decision to hold the first session of the new reichstag over the tomb of Frederick the Great in the Potsdam Garrison church.

The Prussian commission government also decided it was no longer compulsory to fly the republican colors on public buildings.

The symbolism attached to holding the reichstag meeting in the historic church at Potsdam recalls the fact that Germany's first parliament met after the revolution of 1848 in Paul's church at Frankfurt under the present republican colors.

Among the many measures being taken by the government, one attracting international attention most is the decision to hold foreign correspondents responsible for reporting "in a malicious manner."

Following a raid last night on the quarters of the Jewish Citizens' Council Union, members of the organization issued a statement today that documents seized in the raid have to do with the campaign against antisemitism and always are available to the public.

Auxiliary police, recruited from the ranks of political organizations known to be loyal to the government, are continuing their activities against communist organizations.

Today they entered the home of Lilli Kell, Berlin correspondent of the Moscow newspaper Izvestia, and took her to police headquarters after confiscating some of her papers. She was held for two hours, then released by instruction of the foreign office after the Russian ambassador had protested.

Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian foreign minister, also filed a protest with the foreign office, leaving no doubt that the soviet government disapproved the treatment accorded the correspondent.

Refunding Measure Urged for Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 2.—(AP)—Disclosing the default by the state on a $770,000 interest payment on revenue bonds, Governor E. A. Tamm today urged a refunding of all state highway obligations.

The governor's statement was made at a joint session of the legislature today and urged passage of a bill for the refunding of all state highway obligations, approximately $146,000,000, over a 25-year period through issuance of new bonds bearing 3 per cent interest.

He estimated the state highway revenue would not exceed $6,500,000 this year, and would be short of requirements for bond interest and maturities and maintenance by $3,500,000.

The interest payment which the state defaulted on yesterday included $575,000 on Martineau highway bonds, $119,500 on toll bridge bonds and $76,000 on revenue bonds, for which old road district bonds, payment of which was assumed under the 1927 Martineau law, were exchanged under the refunding act of 1932.

Following a raid last night on the quarters of the Jewish Citizens' Council Union, members of the organization issued a statement today that documents seized in the raid have to do with the campaign against antisemitism and always are available to the public.

Auxiliary police, recruited from the ranks of political organizations known to be loyal to the government, are continuing their activities against communist organizations.

Today they entered the home of Lilli Kell, Berlin correspondent of the Moscow newspaper Izvestia, and took her to police headquarters after confiscating some of her papers. She was held for two hours, then released by instruction of the foreign office after the Russian ambassador had protested.

Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian foreign minister, also filed a protest with the foreign office, leaving no doubt that the soviet government disapproved the treatment accorded the correspondent.

Refunding Measure Urged for Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 2.—(AP)—Disclosing the default by the state on a $770,000 interest payment on revenue bonds, Governor E. A. Tamm today urged a refunding of all state highway obligations.

The governor's statement was made at a joint session of the legislature today and urged passage of a bill for the refunding of all state highway obligations, approximately $146,000,000, over a 25-year period through issuance of new bonds bearing 3 per cent interest.

He estimated the state highway revenue would not exceed $6,500,000 this year, and would be short of requirements for bond interest and maturities and maintenance by $3,500,000.

The interest payment which the state defaulted on yesterday included $575,000 on Martineau highway bonds, $119,500 on toll bridge bonds and $76,000 on revenue bonds, for which old road district bonds, payment of which was assumed under the 1927 Martineau law, were exchanged under the refunding act of 1932.

The refunding measure would not exceed $6,500,000, the governor said, and would be short of requirements for bond interest and maturities and maintenance by $3,500,000.

Well-Scorched Furniture Basis of New Racket

CHICAGO, March 2.—(AP)—State's attorney's office police charged today that a group of men kept home fires burning at a profit 20 times with one set of well-scorched household furniture.

They arrested Robert Brice, 43, of Oak Park, and Fred Coda, 43, of Chicago, accusing them as leaders of the alleged racket.

Brice was accused by Assistant State's Attorney Frank Donaghy of approaching short-of-cash householders with a suggestion that they allow the moving in of the scorched furniture and the moving out of their own, following this with the burning of newspapers to scorch the walls. Insurance company adjustments for damages would follow.

GEORGE LEWIS SR., 84, DIES IN TALLAHASSEE

Executive of Florida's Old State Bank Succumbs to Injuries.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 2.—(AP)—George Lewis Sr., 84, president of Florida's oldest state bank, died today from injuries received Tuesday when his automobile was struck by a locomotive near Havana, Fla.

Mr. Lewis' father, B. C. Lewis, founded Florida's first state bank in 1856. George Lewis was one of several sons associated with the bank. He was a native of Tallahassee.

Mr. Lewis is survived by one son, George Lewis Jr., Tallahassee banker, and three daughters, Miss Mary D. Lewis and Mrs. John W. Henderson, of Tallahassee, and Mrs. William S. Manning, of Jacksonville. Funeral services have not been arranged.

MRS. HELEN MAR BURNELL, SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 2.—(AP)—Death came to Mrs. Helen Mar Burnell, one of three or four survivors of the 1918 influenza epidemic, just one day after her 103rd birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Burnell celebrated her 100th anniversary three years ago yesterday by taking her first airplane ride. She was born March 2, 1830, at Piquette, N. Y. She was a widow when the War Between the States began, and enlisted in the Union army as a nurse and served three years at Adams hospital, Memphis, Tenn.

REAR ADMIRAL J. A. RODGERS, HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., March 2.—(AP)—Rear Admiral John Augustus Rodgers, U. S. Navy (retired), died tonight at his home at St. Hill, here, following an illness of three months. He was 84 years old.

F. A. ANGLIN, OTTAWA, Ont., March 2.—(AP)—F. A. Anglin died at his home today two days after his resignation as chief justice of Ontario became effective. He would have been 68 years old next month.

COLLEAGUES LAUD WALSH IN DEATH

Congressional Associates, High Officials Join in Tributes to Montanan.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—A capital glow with preparations for a grand funeral was added today by the death of the veteran Thomas J. Walsh on the threshold of his transfer from a place of power in the senate to the cabinet of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

As the body of the man who was slated to become attorney-general two days hence neared Washington, his colleagues and high government officials joined in expressing regret at his death on a train in North Carolina.

A number of those with whom he had served in the senate during the last two decades arranged tonight to meet the train bearing his body back to the capital. Previously, they had expected to extend a joyful welcome to the 74-year-old senator and the bride whom he married last Saturday.

Whether there will be a state funeral in the senate chamber awaited decision after the party reached Washington. The senator will be buried at Helena, Mont.

Soon after the senate and house adjourned out of respect for Walsh, who presided over the 1924 and 1932 democratic national conventions and prosecuted the famous Teapot Dome oil scandals in 1924, Vice President Curtis named a committee to attend the funeral.

In addition to Wheeler, the Montana colleague of Walsh, the delegation consists of Robinson, of Arkansas; McNary, of Oregon; Pittman, of Nevada; Borah, of Idaho; Ashurst, of Arizona; Walsh, of Massachusetts; Carey and Kendrick, of Wyoming; Schall, of Minnesota; King of Utah, and Dill, of Washington.

President Hoover was represented by his aids as deeply moved by news of the death of Walsh, who had been counted on by Roosevelt to be one of the bulwarks of his administration. The chief executive sent a message of condolence to Mrs. Walsh.

Vice President Curtis said the new administration has lost a very valuable man and the nation has lost an outstanding legislator and a man of wonderful ability.

Senator Wheeler, Walsh's colleague, said: "I am grieved beyond words. He has been almost as a father to me. Senator Walsh's passing is a real loss to this country. His advice and counsel was so much needed in this time of stress. He was one of America's real great statesmen—intelligent, honest and courageous. He was devoted to Montana and his people and was ready to fight for what he believed to be in the interest of the underprivileged men and women of this country."

Senator Borah, Idaho republican, described the death as "a national calamity." "With all due respect to the other members of the cabinet, he was the man who had been tried and tested in public service and who stood out as an able and patriotic public servant."

Sympathy went out to the widow of the senator, en route to Washington with the body. Mrs. Genevieve Walsh, daughter of Norfolk, daughter of Walsh, arranged by telephone for her to be met by one of her old friends—Madame Victor M. Maurtua, wife of the Peruvian minister.

Lauded by Robinson, the democratic leader, described Walsh as "one of our ablest and most beloved members" who "has demonstrated exceptional ability and great loyalty to his duty."

High praise for the Montanan came

GIRL WINS $750 FOR MONKEY DREAMS

SEATTLE, March 2.—(AP)—Mary Young, 12, who was bitten by a monkey in 1931, filed suit against the owner, saying she had "horrible dreams" of monkeys ever since. A jury awarded her $750 damages from William Estep, teacher of a church at Excelsior Springs, Mo., and Joseph Stein, trainer of the monkey.

A three-legged calf was born near Cheney, Wash., on the E. H. Dickens ranch. The shoulder blade is perfect but there is no sign of a leg. Five years ago Dickens sold a five-legged calf with six feet to a circus side show for $250.

In a statement by Attorney General Mitchell, whom Walsh was to follow at the department of justice, explaining they had been conferring recently about the duties of the office, Mitchell added:

"Senator Walsh's knowledge of the operations of the federal government would have been of inestimable value as legal adviser to the incoming administration."

Speaker Garner said the country "has lost a brilliant statesman and able lawyer." He added that "no man has been more conscientious and diligent in protecting the interests of the people as a whole."

George H. Dern, secretary-designate of war: "His death is a great loss to the administration."

James A. Farley, who will be postmaster-general: "This administration loses the advice and wise counsel of one of America's foremost statesmen."

Miss Frances Perkins, incoming secretary of labor: "I had been looking forward to receiving his help and advice."

William H. Woodin, secretary of the treasury in the Roosevelt cabinet: "I am inexpressibly shocked."

Charles G. Dawes, former vice president: "His loss is irreparable."

Henry A. Wallace, secretary-designate of agriculture: "It will be most difficult to fill his shoes as attorney-general."

Joseph Daniels, former navy secretary: "In Great Britain he would have been knighted for his championship of natural resources and his punishment of wrong in high places."

Bainbridge Colby, former secretary of state: "A man of the most brilliant capacities with a record of courageous and effective public service unsurpassed in his generation."

James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany: "With his fearlessness and profound knowledge of law he would have placed the attorney-general's office on a very high plane."

Rexford Guy Tugwell, economic adviser to Mr. Roosevelt: "It will be difficult to go without him."

Alfred E. Smith: "His sound advice and good judgment will be greatly missed in the immediate days to come."

Professor Moley, war debts adviser to Mr. Roosevelt: "We have lost one of the most potent and effective exponents of public honesty of all times."

Elihu Root, former secretary of state: "A very able lawyer, very right-minded and sincere in his devotion to the best interests of his country."

Former Senator John S. Cohen: "I am inexpressibly shocked and grieved at the death of Senator Walsh. Having known him through years of party contacts and having watched the working of his master mind in the senate, I can say advisedly that he was one of the truly great democrats and great Americans of our time. An uncompromising foe of corruption in high places, he kept constant faith with the people and with his own heroic ideals of public duty. In his passing, the country suffers an immeasurable loss."

SEN. WALSH DIES OF HEART ATTACK EN ROUTE NORTH

train. Before the physician reached his side the Montanan was dead. The body was removed from the train at Rocky Mount, N. C., and prepared for burial. It was dressed in the suit Senator Walsh wore when he took Senator Perez Chaumont, the widow of a wealthy Havana businessman, as his bride.

At 3 p. m. the body was placed aboard a train for Washington. Funeral plans had not been definitely fixed when the train left, but relatives said Senator Walsh would be buried in Helena, Mont., beside the body of his first wife, who died several years ago.

Mrs. Walsh, who earlier in the day had suffered a slight heart attack herself, brought on by the strain of her husband's death, collapsed as she boarded the train. She was accompanied by a nurse, Dr. W. B. Kinslaw, heart specialist of Rocky Mount, and Captain Charles A. Gudger, U. S. N., Senator Walsh's son-in-law. Captain Gudger flew here from Hampton Roads, Va., when he learned of Senator Walsh's death. The train was due to reach Washington at 10:45 p. m.

While she waited for the train which was to carry her and her dead husband's body to Washington, Mrs. Walsh told in halting English in her Rocky Mount hotel room of his death. She was a widow, she said, by sunlight streaming through the window of the car as the train was between Centerville and Wilson, N. C.

She looked at her husband's berth and saw it was empty.

"I thought he was in the bathroom," she said brokenly, "and I called like this, Who-o-o, Tom, who-o-o, Tom. He didn't answer."

"I tried to pick him up and couldn't lift him. I tried several times. Then I started screaming and ringing the bell. The porter, he came and we lifted the senator into the berth."

"I lifted his arms up and down. I patted his body all over. I opened his eyes. I blew in his mouth."

"Then a doctor came, he pushed me aside. I wanted to do anything to bring life to the senator."

"But there he was—dead."

Senator Walsh, long an outstanding leader of his party and of the senate, was elected to the senate in 1912 and served continuously since. His selection for attorney-general by President-elect Roosevelt was announced this week.

Last Friday he flew to Havana and the following day married Senora Perez Chaumont. The ceremony first had been set for Monday and explaining the change in plans, Senator Walsh said:

Like Mrs. Walsh, the senator was a member of the Catholic church, and as theasket containing his body was placed aboard the train, the Rev. Father Dinges, Catholic priest from Wilson, performed the last rites of the church.

Mrs. Walsh revealed that the senator had not been well for several days. She related that, he suffered several attacks while in Florida, but said physicians there told her they were caused by indigestion.

Dr. Harry L. Merryday, of Daytona Beach, Fla., who attended the senator twice during his 24-hour stay there, said he found Walsh suffering from a mild angina pectoris and intestinal indigestion.

"I advised him to stay in bed and not try to continue his trip but he declared he had to go on," the physician said.

The death certificate, signed by Dr. M. A. Pittman, of Wilson, who boarded the train there, said of the death: "Cause unknown; possibly coronary thrombosis."

Dr. Pittman expressed belief that failure of blood vessels to the heart, anoxemia or some circulation failure was the cause.

As news of Senator Walsh's death spread around the world, his widow began to receive hundreds of telegrams of condolence. Among the first were messages from President Hoover, president-elect Roosevelt and Harry F. Guggenheim, United States ambassador to Cuba.

MRS. THOMAS J. WALSH.

George Halts Friends' Move To Urge Him for Walsh Post

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—Efforts on the part of the Georgia congressional delegation to put forth Senator Walter F. George for the post of attorney general in the new Roosevelt cabinet, following the sudden death of the attorney general-designate, Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, died aborning today when the Georgia senator himself vetoed the movement.

At a meeting preliminary to the main democratic caucus over the speakership, the Georgia group laid plans for passing resolutions formally endorsing Senator George for the cabinet position. After being informed of the contemplated action, however, Senator George hastened to communicate with individual members and ask that he not be projected for the post.

Only the personal intervention of the senator prevented the delegation from launching a movement in his behalf. All members from the state, including the representatives-elect, were prepared to support the recommendations to President-elect Roosevelt in his behalf.

At the same time, it was made known that the Georgia senator's colleagues in the upper chamber were of the same frayed mind and indicated a purpose to present his name to Mr. Roosevelt.

While expressing appreciation for the tender of endorsement, Senator George told members of the delegation that he would not feel free to allow his name to be considered in view of the fact that the president-elect already has named three southerners to his cabinet. He took the position that it might prove embarrassing to the new administration to have three members of his official family from the south and frankly informed his well wishes that if Governor Roosevelt should decide to make take over the department of justice portfolio he would not be disposed to accept.

He pointed out that Virginia, South Carolina and Tennessee will be represented in the cabinet, as already officially announced, and other sections of the country might resent the appointment of a fourth southern member just as there might be criticism of the appointment of four New Englanders.

Week of his marriage in Havana and his designation previously as attorney-general in the cabinet of Franklin D. Roosevelt, plunged the state into deepest grief.

HAVANA MOURNS TRAGEDY OF WALSH'S SUDDEN DEATH

HAVANA, March 2.—(AP)—Reports of the sudden death of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, attorney-general-designate in the Roosevelt cabinet, came as a great shock today to Cuban official and social circles.

Senator Walsh was married in Cuba less than a week ago to Senora Mina Perez Chaumont. After the civil and religious ceremonies at the bride's home in Marianao, a suburb, they left for Miami, Fla., by airplane en route to Washington.

President Machado dispatched a message of condolence to the widow, while Orestes Ferrera, secretary of state, described the report of the senator's death as "shocking news."

Widow Collapses.

Congress adjourned out of respect to his memory, and the capital was saddened. Social and official circles in Havana were shocked.

Mrs. Walsh, plunged suddenly from a bride's happiness to a widow's sorrow, bore up bravely. After her first hysteria, when she screamed for help upon finding Senator Walsh unconscious on the floor of their compartment, she was composed until the train for Washington left.

She walked calmly from the nearby hotel a moment after Senator Walsh's car had been put aboard the train, but upon reaching her car collapsed. She soon regained her composure.

She described graphically the illness which her husband suffered during the past few days. An attack seized him, she said, Tuesday night after dinner in Daytona Beach and he complained of pains.

"About 11 o'clock he again said he had a pain. I had given him some soda earlier. I asked him to call a doctor. He did not want to, but I called one."

"The very next doctor came and only stayed a few minutes before he wanted to leave. I asked him to stay. He and I talked. Many things, just to keep him."

"About 1:30 in the morning the senator said he was sleepy and wanted to go to sleep. He said he felt better. I noticed the senator was pale."

Walsh Very Pale.

"We got up yesterday. The senator looked pale. He complained not of a pain but said he had a soreness in his chest. The doctor had assured me the senator did not have heart trouble. I think he did that to spare me."

Continuing her story, she told of how the attack persisted and of breaking a luncheon engagement so she could remain with the senator, but said he apparently was well when they took their train last night, although he was taking no solid food.

"Later about 9 o'clock, he said he was hungry."

"I urged him to wait until three hours, until about 11 o'clock, before he even took orange juice."

The Georgia group met primarily today for the purpose of outlining a slate of committee assignments to be sought for individual members at the new session. Representative Carl Vinson, of Milledgeville, dean of the delegation, presided.

As explained by members later, however, no final action was taken. Plans will be held in abeyance until after the inauguration Saturday. Expectations are that the slate will be worked out during the interim between the inauguration of the present "lame duck" session and the date of the special session, not yet announced by President-elect Roosevelt.

Tentative plans call for the advancement of Representative Eugene Cox, of Camilla, to a place on the all-powerful ways and means committee which has had no Georgia member since the resignation of former Congressman Charles R. Crisp. Mr. Cox is now a member of the rules committee, an assignment he would have to give up to go on ways and means.

Representative Homer C. Parker, of the first Georgia district, which embraces Savannah and a large part of the coastal area, probably will be put forward for a place on the rivers and harbors committee instead of his present assignment to the military affairs body.

Both Representative-elect Emmett Ouga of Griffin, and Representative-elect Braswell Dean, of Alma, are understood to have a preference for service on the agriculture committee, one of the exclusive bodies of the house, and some adjustment of the conflict will have to be worked out here. It is hardly likely that both will be given a place on the same committee.

Another change contemplated in the present Georgia representation on major committees involves Congressman Malcolm C. Tarver, of Dalton, who will be put forward for the appropriations body, one of the most important assignments in the house organization. Judge Tarver is now a member of judiciary.

With the retirement of Representative W. C. Wright, of Newnan, March 4, Georgia will lose its place on appropriations, thus strengthening the Dalton man's chances for the post.

the senator had indigestion. He gave me medicine, a pill and a liquid, to give the senator a spoonful after each meal. I had done so.

"In Daytona I bought a thermometer to take his fever. Mine was broken. I wanted to see if he had a temperature. I took his fever. It was normal."

"I fixed the senator some orange juice. I put it in the bathroom to keep it from spilling. He was like a baby that wanted to go to sleep. He turned over in his bed and I tucked him in. I went to sleep."

"I knew nothing—then the light started in the window. I looked in his bed. He was not there."

Taught in Wisconsin.

A native of Wisconsin, Senator Walsh, who became perhaps Montana's best-known citizen, cast his lot with that state when both he and it were young.

He was born at Two Rivers, Wis., and was educated in the public schools of the state and at the University of Wisconsin. As a young man he taught school, becoming principal of the high school at Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

One of the things of which he was proud was a life certificate he held as a teacher in the schools of Wisconsin.

Six years later he removed to Helena and formed the law firm of Walsh & Nolan, also becoming interested in land and live stock companies.

He soon became engaged in politics and in 1906 was an unsuccessful candidate on the democratic ticket for congress. Four years later he ran for the senate against Senator Thomas H. Carter and was defeated, but was elected two years later after being nominated unanimously at the state convention as the democratic candidate. He was re-elected in 1918, 1924 and 1930.

Senator Walsh was early regarded by his colleagues as one of the ablest attorneys in the nation, and his prosecution of the famous Teapot Dome oil scandals in 1924 enhanced that reputation.

Versed in parliamentary rule, he was chosen to preside over the national conventions of his party in 1924 and 1932.

Senator Walsh's first wife was Miss Eleanor C. McClements, of Chicago, whom he married in 1889. She died in 1917. Their daughter, Mrs. Genevieve Walsh Gudger, is the wife of Captain Charles Gudger, U. S. N., who is stationed at Hampton Roads, Virginia.

"Smilin' Through" Opens Its Second Run Today

Atlanta will witness a rare happening in its moving picture theaters Friday, when Loew's Grand theater will bring back "Smilin' Through," several months after its first presentation at the same playhouse. Norma Shearer, Fredric March and Leslie Howard are in the cast, and the film has proven itself the most popular seen at the Grand since its reopening last fall after being redecorated and modernized.

The arrangement is a result of the exclusive run policy which Loew's Grand theater follows. Films offered there are shown subsequently in no other Atlanta theater. Under its contracts, "Smilin' Through" can only be brought back to the Grand. Its return follows innumerable requests from persons unable to see it last fall, and from others who want an opportunity to see the film again.

"Smilin' Through" was written by Jane Cowell, who starred for several seasons in its dual role. It was produced shortly after the war, and was peculiarly fitted to the tenor of the time. Yet the new film version of "Smilin' Through" has undergone a successful adaptation. Seen today it is even more effective than it was a decade ago. It is as pertinent to the times as it was when it was first produced.

In "Smilin' Through" we see a new and more lovely Norma Shearer. Abandoning the sophisticated parts, such as her "Private Lives" and the heavily dramatic ones, as in "Strange Interlude," she brings to "Smilin' Through" a wistful sincerity and girliness.

Cracker Club Delivers Ultimatum to Recalcitrant Players

Spirit of Old Orioles Effects Thrift Here—Almost

The spirit of the old Orioles, most famous of all baseball teams, appeared yesterday to effect a bit of thrift—almost.

Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson, president of the Crackers and, along with John J. McGraw the most famous of the old Orioles, was looking at his hands.

They are gnarled and broken hands from many years of crouching down behind the batters and catching the curves and fast ones of many famous pitchers. Through Your Uncle Wilbert's head was running this soliloquy: To be manicured or not to be, that is the question.

And then the spirit of the old Orioles came forward. "Imagine me getting these stubs of mine manicured," he said. "If I had been going around getting them manicured in the old days John McGraw would have run me out of baseball. I can hear him yet, barking at me from third base. My, how we used to cuss one another. And yet I'll never forget the day when I caught a man at the plate and the umpire called him safe. McGraw took us right off the field. They fined us a thousand dollars." He grinned reflectively.

"I've been arguing with these ballplayers about going to work and saving their money until I've convinced myself. I've always been like the other fellows in baseball, spending a lot. And why should I spend a dollar to have these busted old stubs of mine slicked up? I can take my knife and pare them right off. That's the trouble with us. We've used to spending a couple of bucks here and a couple there and forgetting that they'll buy a shirt or a pair of shoes. Why, in the old days when there was not much money in baseball I left Ma Robinson and four kids at home because I couldn't afford to take 'em to St. Louis when McGraw and I were sold there. And the players are complaining today. Why, they've got to realize that times are tough."

And so the old Oriole, and one of the grandest guys in baseball, heaved himself up out of the chair and rumbled, "Imagine me getting these stubs of mine manicured. And paying money for it."

And so he betook himself to the barbershop.

I came by 20 minutes later and Robby, his genial face beaming, was surrounded by the barber, the shine boy and the beautiful young lady who had her nail file going briskly on the busted old stubs of the old Oriole. The old Orioles can't take it as they used to. And when the Irish, God rest them, resist a pretty girl?

GOLFERS WILL RETURN

Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson thinks the depression is going to bring some golfers back into the baseball parks.

"If every golfer is like me, which he isn't, of course, there will be quite a few of them coming back to baseball," said Robby.

"I still think baseball is the greatest game of them all. And people, some people, who strayed away from baseball are going to realize that they can still see the finest athletic entertainment there is for the price of one golf ball alone. And so I expect to see them back this year. We're going to have a team which will entertain."

And then he launched into a story of a golf match with Bill Klem, the famous umpire. They were playing for a dollar a hole and they both drove.

They walked and they walked. Bill Klem was getting excited about his drive.

"I don't think your drive went this far," said Robby. But Klem kept walking. And getting more excited. And then they heard a commotion back of them. There were some excited men leaping about. Bill Klem's ball was still on the tee.

THE OLD FAN SPEAKS

The old fan ran right into me as I entered the hotel lobby.

"The new salary limit is too low," he said, grasping me by the coat sleeve as the ancient mariner grabbed a wedding guest once upon a time. "It's much too low."

"Why back in 1909 the limit was $6,500. And," he said, being low, "I'll tell you something. I was an official of the club and there wasn't a club in the league that wasn't paying as much as $9,000. If they don't cheat this year it will be the first time."

"In those days they used to charge up a couple of grand to traveling expenses and it went to pay for some pitcher's boost above the contract. And there would be charges for this and that. Oh, they spent more than they swore they would."

"The auditor used to raise Cain about the extra expenses. He'd ask why in the so-and-so we were spending all this money for incidentals, and we'd just grin."

"Do you think they are going to stick by the limit this year?"

THEY MOST CERTAINLY ARE

And the owners say they are. They don't trust one another very much. They have an elaborate system for fining and catching and screaming for the police and all that. But they insist that baseball is up against a fight for survival and this is no time to play around.

In fact, most owners in baseball, minors and majors, have paper at the banks. And the bankers are looking wise and advising cutting down on expenses when it comes to more paper for operating this year.

And so I think they will stick to their pledge. Which will shock and amaze the players, who are used to no such integrity of purpose.

BASEBALL—ALONE—WILL DRAW

There has been a great deal of talk about adding color to baseball to make the fans twirl the turnstiles.

I have an idea that real baseball would in itself be colorful and would cause the turnstiles to whirl merrily. In the past the players have come to take the game just as a job. This is, I know, an old plaint, but still a true one. The players do not care about the competitive side of it. I do not think the dominance of the umpires is to blame as much as some think. The players themselves take the game as a matter of course—a couple of hours' work each afternoon.

All the old enthusiasm is gone. The Cubans, I know, have that enthusiasm now. The Japanese, so observers say, have it. It is what baseball used to have—the spirit the old Orioles had when Wilbert Robinson and John McGraw were playing ball.

And I am wondering if it isn't a spirit that is entirely lost.

GEORGIA WORKS ON NEW PLAYS FOR FALL USE

Coach Mehre To Employ Wing Back System Next Year.

ATHENS, March 2.—(AP)—Dozens of husky athletes rushed about Sanford field today, romping through wing back formations the University of Georgia will use in its football campaign next fall.

Harry Mehre, the young head coach, trotted behind one team, shouting suggestions and criticisms as his athletes ran plays employing the wing backs he is experimenting with.

Georgia suffered a poor season last fall and Mehre is tinkering with this wing back idea to add more power and deception to the Notre Dame system he expounded. So far, he's well pleased with the results.

The new formations are an exaggeration of the South Bend style. The backs are spaced further apart at the outset and swing into attacking position, the No. 1 back outflanking the opposing tackle, with the same rhythm that characterizes all Notre Dame shifts.

Mehre counts on the wing back maneuver, better kickers and some excellent sophomore material to boost the Bulldogs up among the top teams of the Southeastern conference.

CAPABLE FRESHMEN. The group of 20-odd athletes who will be sophomores next fall may contribute more regulars to Mehre's varsity. John Bond, a 160-pounder, appears likely to be in the first foursome as left halfback, possibly the most important post in the Notre Dame pattern.

Charles Treadaway, Glenn Johnson, Al Minot and Jimmy Jones are other backfield candidates who look good. Treadaway hasn't been out for spring practice but played well on the freshman club until he suffered a broken arm.

Tom Cordell, As Candler and Wagon offer Mehre excellent end replacements, while Allen Shi will be valuable either as a guard or center and Morgan and Lindsey are big tackles.

These are the best of the yearlings who will be used along with left-overs to replace nine members of the 1932 squad who have completed their playing days.

Leroy Young and Jack Griffith, last year's sophomore star, will return as quarterbacks. Treadaway is a prospect and the veteran Sam Brown may be given a signal-calling job.

BACKS PLENTIFUL. Homer Key, Buck Chapman and Marion Gaston are left halfbacks, although Mehre plans to try the latter two at fullback positions. Cy Grant, the best ground-gainer in 1932; Johnson and Minot are right halfbacks, while Bill Davis, who played well as a beginner last fall, Jimmy Jones and John Crouch are fullbacks.

Bob Ludwig appears likely to start at center, although he has had trouble with ligaments in one knee and will undergo an operation on the other while Shi probably will share the pivot post.

Opfer, West and Cooper are leading tackles. The freshman Morgan and Townsend are others. West still is nursing a broken ankle received in the Georgia Tech game in December, while Townsend is recovering from a knee operation, as is Dave McCullough, who likely will be a first-team guard.

John Brown, Leroy Morehead and Louis Wolfson are the most experienced guards, while Graham Batchelor and Turbyville are the ranking ends.

McWhorter, at center; Haulchurst, at guard; Miller, at end, and Buster Mott in the backfield are the only last players who will be greatly missed, if any.

Only those players who will be eligible for participation next fall will be permitted to play today and every candidate will be given a chance to show his ability.

G. M. A.'s starting lineup will likely include: Webster, at end; Scofield; McKay and Cohen, guards; Swift, center; Vaughn, quarterback; Morrow and Rapp, halfbacks; and Mosley, fullback. Substitutes for G. M. A. are Stephenson, Bowker, Singletary, Minter, Shirk, Fortune, Kennedy, D'Arcy and Evans.

Russell's lineup will be Jim Clay and Dempsey, ends; Gray and Stephens, tackles; Morris and Paulkner, guards; Walker, center; Epperson, quarterback; Shafer and Peoples, halfbacks, and Sims, fullback. Russell's reserves will include Allen, Deadwiler, Hopterson, Harrison, Murphy and Guinn.

The Pelican Wins First Race of Year NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP)—The Pelican today won his first race at Hialeah park, carrying the silks of Joseph E. Widener to an easy victory in the 15-round title bout with Dodge Sloane's Islander with E. R. Bradley's Bobbing third.

The Pelican, packing 108 pounds, was clocked in .12, Islander, candidate for the Florida Derby, worked out a full mile and was caught in 1:38.25.

G. E. Phillips' Beau Jolie won his third successive race in accounting for the seven-furlong secondary feature at the Miami course but he had to give his best to beat G. W. Ogle's Indian Runner by a nose. In his previous victories Beau Jolie won by five and six lengths.

Miss Careful, which has run some of her best races over a muddy racing strip, today showed she could also run over a fast track when she came from behind to earn a nose decision over four other 3-year-old fillies in the 4-furlong featured race at the Fair Grounds. J. J. Robinson's Eva B. was second and Sabula third.

Skeet Club Traps To Open Saturday Opening of the Atlanta Skeet Club traps for the spring and summer months will take place at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon on the Adamsville road.

The event, the first of a series of regular Saturday shoots, will be open to every trapshooter in the city and those visiting in the city.

Entered in Epworth Tourney at Chattanooga

Here's the undefeated College Park Methodist team entered in the Southern Epworth Athletic Conference tournament Saturday at Chattanooga. College Park beat Trinity in the decisive game to decide the tournament entry from

G. M. A., RUSSELL PLAY GRID GAME

By Roy White.

Georgia Military Academy and Russell High will close their spring football practices with a game at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon at College Park. The game will be free to the public.

It is the second time that a spring football game has been attempted at G. M. A. and was scheduled in order that Coach Paget, of G. M. A., and Bowen, of Russell, can get a line on their prospects for next year. G. M. A. defeated Boys' High several years ago for the title.

Both G. M. A. and Russell have been practicing regularly for the past two weeks and after today's game will turn their attention to baseball, track and swimming practice.

Coach Paget, at G. M. A., said Thursday that he may call his football squad together next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday to work out in the gymnasium, beginning at 7:30 a. m. The game will be a practice game, but that the remaining workouts will only be to clear up mistakes, if any.

Only those players who will be eligible for participation next fall will be permitted to play today and every candidate will be given a chance to show his ability.

G. M. A.'s starting lineup will likely include: Webster, at end; Scofield; McKay and Cohen, guards; Swift, center; Vaughn, quarterback; Morrow and Rapp, halfbacks; and Mosley, fullback. Substitutes for G. M. A. are Stephenson, Bowker, Singletary, Minter, Shirk, Fortune, Kennedy, D'Arcy and Evans.

Russell's lineup will be Jim Clay and Dempsey, ends; Gray and Stephens, tackles; Morris and Paulkner, guards; Walker, center; Epperson, quarterback; Shafer and Peoples, halfbacks, and Sims, fullback. Russell's reserves will include Allen, Deadwiler, Hopterson, Harrison, Murphy and Guinn.

Cliff Sutter Wins Bermuda Net Title

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 2.—(UP)—Cliff Sutter of New Orleans, the third United States ranking tennis player, today defeated Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., 6-2, 1-6, 6-2 in the final for the men's singles title of the Bermuda tennis championship.

The singles tournament became an All-United States affair yesterday when Mangin, American indoor champion and No. 7 in the national rankings, eliminated the last of the English players, R. K. Tinkler, in the semifinal.

In the women's doubles final, also an All-United States contest, Miss Virginia Rice, of Boston, and Miss Virginia Hillary, of Philadelphia, defeated Mrs. Harry Egan, of Boston, and Miss Florence Le Boutillier, of New York, 6-8, 6-3, 6-2.

Maxie Rosenbloom Arrives for Battle

NEW YORK, March 2.—(UP)—Maxie Rosenbloom, recognized in New York state as light-heavyweight champion, came here today to begin training for the 15-round title bout with Adolph Meuser, young German contender, to be held March 10 at Madison Square Garden.

Rosenbloom has been in the south during the past several weeks. The Rosenbloom-Meuser winner will meet Harry Ebbs, of Brooklyn, in a title bout March 24.

College Park Seeks Return of Silver Cup

Unbeaten Five To Compete in Epworth Tourney Saturday at Chattanooga.

By Jack Troy.

Generals of Atlanta Methodist basketball have checked over their forces and figure that the chances are better than even to capture two titles in the big push at Chattanooga Saturday.

In the boys' division of the Southern Epworth Athletic conference tournament, College Park, Atlanta's only undefeated masculine hardwood array, will meet an all-star team from Birmingham at 3 o'clock.

Grace, one of the few undefeated girls' teams in this city, plays the Birmingham girls at 4 o'clock.

The winner of the College Park-Birmingham contest will meet the survivor of the Nashville-Chattanooga struggle in the finals at 9:30, while the victor in the Grace-Birmingham duel engages the Nashville-Chattanooga winner at 8.

TWO SILVER CUPS. The fight is on for Atlanta's Christian soldiers, with pre-battle indications pointing to two silver cups as their reward. College Park hopes to return to Atlanta with the silver cup, missing since 1931.

Grace's chances of winning are deemed excellent since the same Druid Hills team, which lost to Nashville, 26 to 25, in the finals last year, has been defeated by Grace this year.

Ernest Littleton, coach of Druid Hills, and members of his team are going along on the special excursion to root for the teams. Southern railway is operating a special excursion Saturday and more than 200 followers are expected to make the trip with beginning at 7:30 a. m. Another train will leave here at 2:35 p. m. and will reach Chattanooga in time for the finals.

While in Chattanooga the teams will stay at the Reed House, which is offering reduced rates for players and visiting spectators.

DECIDING GAME. College Park defeated Trinity last Tuesday night in a game that required two overtime periods to become eligible for participation in the tournament. The score was tied, 17-17, as the regular game ended. It was tied up again in the first overtime period and then the College Park five put on the pressure and won by a score of 32 to 21.

Featuring Joiner and Zeigler, a pair of excellent guards, and Crawford, a flashy forward, College Park is declared to have one of the best balanced teams ever to compete in the Epworth tournament.

The probable lineup will include Fitzpatrick and Stillwell, forwards; Baskin, center; Joiner and Zeigler, guards. Richardson, player-coach, is to be complemented on the splendid work he has done in keeping the College Park team out ahead all the way.

Avondale To Present Boxing and Wrestling

A combination boxing and wrestling program will be presented at 8 o'clock tonight at the Avondale arena with the "Masked Marvel" and Dave Terrell, of Dallas, headlining the wrestling card.

In the main boxing match Joe Manderson, Springfield light-heavyweight, will take on "Young Jack Dempsey," of Scottsdale, in eight rounds.

FAVORITES LOSE IN WOMEN'S PLAY

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 2.—(AP)—Surprising upsets today reaped Maureen O'Connell, defending champion, and Diana Fishwick, leading English star, from the second round of the Florida state women's golf championship, leaving two British and two American lesser lights still in the running.

The defending titleholder from White Bear, N. J., put up a stubborn battle throughout, but fell by the wayside under a sound 4-and-3 drubbing administered by Miss Frances Williams, of Leon Springs, Fla.

Miss Fishwick, who is the British closed and French open champion, met her third defeat in as many Florida tournaments this year when she was forced out 4 and 2 by Barbara Pyman, another English entry.

The tournament medalist, Kathleen Gorman, also from Great Britain, trounced Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Detroit, 1 up on the 18th hole, and Frances Hadfield, Milwaukee, took a 3-and-2 count from Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City.

Fresh from winning the recent south Atlantic tournament at Ormond Beach, Miss Williams hit her stride in the opening of her match with Miss O'Connell, and steadily battled the champion to defeat.

Taking the lead on the second hole, the Delton Springs player increased it to four up at the end of the first nine, where she had a brilliant score of 39, and won handily, despite a determined comeback attempt by the titleholder.

In eliminating Miss Fishwick, Miss Pyman captured the lead on the first hole and then Mrs. Hanley. She was out in 43 and finished the second nine going strong.

Playing a close match with Mrs. Hanley, Miss Williams took a nice 39 on the outgoing nine to be one up, but lost the next two holes to remain down until the 14th. There she struck her winning stroke, again and ended the match with victory on the last green.

Miss Hadfield came from behind to eliminate Mrs. Hill after being one down at the turn.

U. S. Women Stars Win Easy Matches

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 2.—(AP)—Two players from the United States, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, of Philadelphia, and Helen Hicks, of Hewlett, N. Y., 1931 United States women's champion, again recorded overwhelming victories today to reach the semifinal rounds of the Bermuda ladies' golf championship.

Mrs. Hurd, medalist, defeated Jane Eaves, of Boston, 8 and 7. Miss Hicks trounced Mrs. Egan and Mrs. Le Boutillier, 6 and 5. The Philadelphia veteran carried a 38 for the first nine holes of the Riddells Bay course despite a strong northwest wind.

Morris Brown Faces Clark Team Tonight

Clark University will meet Morris Brown College basketball team for the fourth time of the current season at Sunset Casino tonight at 8 o'clock.

Morris Brown, holding a one-game margin over the South Atlanta outfit out of the three games played, is given a slight edge, although the Clark outfit is considerably strengthened with several players who have been held out on account of injuries.

'SIGN OR ELSE,' SAYS ROTUND CRACKER CHIEF

Business Moves Swiftly on Paradoxically Dull Day.

By Ralph McGill.

Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson, president of the Atlanta Crackers and speaking for the owners, delivered an ultimatum to recalcitrant ball players yesterday.

Stripped of the kindness and the mildness with which Your Uncle Wilbert delivers all statements, it was—sign-or-else.

Business moved rather swiftly even though it was, paradoxically, a dull day.

1. A couple of contracts, one from Buster Chatham, shortstop, and one from Babe Phelps, a recruit, arrived unsigned with demands for more money.

2. The unsigned contracts went right back, humming that "gay little ditty of the gay nineties. 'Oh, I Walked Right In and Turned Around and Walked Right Out Again.'"

3. Art Weiss and Eddie Phillips asked for their releases rather than accept the proffered contracts under the new salary limit of $4,500.

4. Wally Dashiell, who made a most favorable impression, visited the office during the day but did not sign. He went to Florida, where he has a radio business. "It isn't doing so well either," said Dashiell.

5. Robby has moved up the date of his ivory hunt in Florida.

Out of all this came the ultimatum.

The Cracker directors have asked President Robinson to notify the players that there will be no trades and no releases. If the players do not sign the ultimatum by the end of the day, that conditions do not justify any increases, and that they intend to abide by the league rule.

I do not expect to have trouble with but two of the players," said Your Uncle Wilbert Robinson yesterday. "They are bound to realize that financial conditions this year are uncertain and that the future of baseball is by no means sure."

"I asked Dashiell how he would like to be an owner. The owners have been digging down in their jeans for the past three years and they all owe money on their investments; they can't get any more from the banks; and they are finding a strict rule necessary."

TWO SIDES. There are two sides to this business of baseball. And the sooner the players realize it the better they will be off. It is better for them to play baseball at a salary of $3,000 or $4,000 per month than to do nothing. I expect the boys to see the light and sign. If they don't we'll have to get some other way.

Robinson does not plan to leave Atlanta until about March 11. He will see the Crackers play the Washington club in a game on that date and will then put on his gum shoes and go to the Florida camps.

"But bigosh," said Your Uncle Robby, "those major leagues have farms and I'm not so sure what we can do."

He is doing this much, however. He plans to conduct a free baseball schedule, paying a good coach a salary to stay in Atlanta and develop young ball players. This is one of the important developments. Originally it was intended to run the school for a few weeks.

CARDS ON TABLE. "I think we can let the youngsters come in here and learn baseball, giving them the instruction free, and do it with the club is stopping."

Eddie Phillips, catcher; Andy Messinger, pitcher; Joe Bonowitz and Art Weiss, outfielders; Babe Phelps, Wally Dashiell and Buster Chatham and Ted Rollins, infielders, are "disappointed." They are about all the "A" men on the club.

A search is now on for another "B" man so that an "A" prospect may be dropped.

Ball players sending in unsigned contracts may listen closely and hear the contracts coming back. "Oh, I walked right in and turned around and walked right out again."

Moore Drills Cracker Club.

By Jimmy Jones.

MOBILE, Ala., March 3.—His outward calm unruffled by the lack of tidings from the A. H. B. F. Association of Holdout Ball Players—Don Carlos Moore, skipper of the Atlanta Crackers, piped all available hands on deck today for a three-hour workout at Hartwell field.

When all noses were counted there were 22 ball players at the Hotel Carleton where the club is stopping, but most of them are pitchers and catchers. Since the main body of the squad is not expected before Sunday, the early birds who left largely to the batterymen, of which there are 14.

Moore did manage to get in an infield drill, however, although he had to do it with Red Barron, an outfielder, on third; Duck McKee, another outfielder, on second, and Jenkins, a left-handed pitcher, playing first.

Russell (Red) Rollins, a native of Mobile, drilled the workout but was not allowed to participate, due to the fact that he is still a member of the salary minimumers.

The main items that might be termed news today were the reports

Petrels To Play St. Louis Cards in Dublin Celebration Game

MANY NOTABLES WILL BE PRESENT AT 'HOMECOMING'

Governor Talmadge Heads List; March 31 Is Date.

By Jack Troy.

Oglethorpe University's baseball team will play the St. Louis Cardinals as the feature event of a big "homecoming" celebration at Dublin March 31. It was learned last night.

The game will officially open the season for Coach Frank Anderson's Petrel nine.

Many state notables, residents of Dublin and Laurens county, will attend the celebration. Governor Eugene Talmadge will be there in person. Other notables will include Virian L. Stanley, a member of the prison commission; Wylie Moore, president of the Wofford Oil Company, and Hal Stanley, commissioner of commerce and labor.

The Lions Club of Dublin is sponsoring the day's program, and a barbecue, followed by a big dance that night at the Country Club, will be among the entertainment features.

Jim Allen, head of the Dublin Venerable mill, and a public-spirited citizen, is a close friend of the Cardinal owners and arranged the game, negotiations for which were closed yesterday.

J. O. Moseley, a former citizen of Dublin and now an Atlanta hotel official, stated last night that preparations were being made for one of the biggest events ever held in Dublin and Laurens county.

"All the Dublin boys who are engaged in business elsewhere are making plans to attend the homecoming," Moseley said. "The governor will be there, in addition to a number of prominent state notables from Laurens county and Dublin."

The Lions Club is going to make it a big event. Jim Allen and the other boys are not overlooking anything."

Coach Anderson, of Oglethorpe, stated last night that "Oglethorpe considers it an honor to be selected as the team to play the Cardinals in the feature event of the Dublin celebration."

"We will be proud to play the Cardinals and will give them the best we've got."

The Oglethorpe team, which has been practicing since last Wednesday, is shaping as one of the strongest Coach Anderson has had in some time. Only a current lack of batting punch in the outfield is worrying the veteran coach.

Original plans called for the Georgia Tech to play the Cardinals at Dublin on March 31.

'New Deal' in Chicago As Roger Kiley Wins

Former All-American and Auburn Coach Now Hon. Alderman Roger Kiley, of 37th Ward.

By Ralph McGill.

The new deal has been carried to Chicago, where Roger Kiley, former All-American end at Notre Dame and for the past three years assistant coach at Auburn, has been elected alderman of the 37th ward.

Kiley hasn't an aldermanic figure. It is still thin enough to make a shad blush with shame and start demanding reducing salts in its bath. They called him, when he was playing at Notre Dame, "the most graceful end in America."

Kiley early branded as false the report that he campaigned for the position with pillows stuffed in his shirt front, in order to impress one as having all the qualifications for an alderman's job.

"I am just staying in there pitching," he wired, "and am too busy to say what I will do about coaching next fall."

The truth of the matter is that the young lawyer-coach was being attacked by his opponent on the grounds that he, Kiley, was a football coach and hence was not qualified to be an alderman, one of the 50 or more who shape the city's destinies.

REMAINS SILENT.

And so the young man who brought the new deal in aldermanic figures to Chicago remained silent about his coaching plans.

The truth of the matter is that June is likely to see a wedding. Which may also alter his plans. Kiley is engaged to a charming young lady in Chicago and the engagement is to be announced soon.

This influence was also a factor in the election. Kiley did not have time to look at the moon. Last fall he would go out of the home of Chet Wynne, with whom he lived while at Auburn, and stand for hours commenting on the silvery beauties of the moon.

BIGGER THAN MOON.

During the campaign he said, "The ballots look bigger than the moon."

Auburn alumni are planning to go to Chicago this spring and summer to see the world's fair. While there they will make their headquarters in the 37th ward, the ward bossed by Alderman Kiley.

They plan to make a lot of whoopee, so to speak, and when the arm of the law is placed on them they will yell for his honor, the alderman.

Kiley announced some time ago that he doubted if his law practice would permit him to return to Auburn. His friends said that if he won the election his return was even more doubtful.

WYNNE HOPEFUL.

The odds are that he will not return. But Chet Wynne still has hope that Alderman and Mrs. Kiley, of the 37th ward, will be present at Auburn next fall.

The new deal, at any rate, has arrived in Chicago. The most graceful end that ever played football has landed in Cook county politics.

North Avenue Plays Athens High Tonight

The North Avenue Presbyterian basketball varsity will leave this afternoon for Athens to meet the Athens High girls' team at 7:45, eastern standard time, tonight on the high school court.

As these two schools tied in their only game last year, each team is especially anxious to win this season. The game should be very interesting.

15 BOYS' HIGH TRACK STARS OFF TO RACES

Purple Aces Defend Southern Title at Chapel Hill Saturday.

By Roy White.

Fifteen members of the Boys' High track team and Coach Charles Ward left Atlanta Thursday afternoon for Chapel Hill, N. C., where on Saturday they will defend their prep track title in the fourth annual Southern conference indoor track and field meet.

Boys' High will be one of the favored of the 18 prep and high school teams entered from New Jersey, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia and Tennessee.

According to reports from Chapel Hill, the scholastic division of the meet should be one of the best in the history of the events, for more and faster prep and high school teams are entered than ever before. Outstanding among the entries are Boys' High, Newark, N. J., Episcopal High, John Marshall High and Asheville High.

Motz and Cole, winners of seven Boys' High cross-country runs, will represent the Purples in the distances. Moore and Smith in the hurdles, and in the sprints and Arnold in the high jump. They are the Purples' chief performers, while the other entries give Boys' High a very strong representation.

The Purple one-mile relay team will include O'Neal, Motz, Cole and Smith.

Four members of the southern prep championship Boys' High football team, Maffett, O'Neal and Smith, are entered in the various events. They have kept in active training since last August and made an unusually good showing in a recent trial meet at the Henry Grady field.

LANIER ENTERS SECOND ROUND

ATHENS, Ga., March 2.—Three high school basketball teams, Albany Carnesville and Lanier High, of Macon—advanced to the quarter-finals of the annual state high school basketball tournament by overwhelming their opponents in the opening rounds at Woodruff hall here tonight.

Albany High, one of the two seeded teams, took honors for the evening by eliminating Ocala, of the eighth district, by the top-heavy score of 57-10. Led by Kenyon Sellers, short, speedy forward, the second district representatives went on a scoring spree which Ocala was unable to stop during the game.

The tournament is an annual event and the winner will be given the Chip Robert trophy for one year.

Another tourney to determine the Tech golf team in which the freshmen and the winners will be given a trip to the national intercollegiate tournament in the east.

Lanier High, the other seeded team, took the measure of Cohutta, of the seventh district, in the closing game of the evening, winning easily by a score of 37-18. The G. I. A. A. champions, representing the state at large, had little trouble with the smaller, less experienced team from the seventh district. Matt Teibert, Lanier guard, was high scorer with 12 points.

The quarter-final rounds will get under way here Friday afternoon. Five teams that drew byes tonight will go into action then. Pairings for the quarter-finals are:

First Bracket: Albany (second district) versus Newman (fourth district). Metter (first) versus Carnesville (tenth).

SENATORS LOOK GOOD ENOUGH, GRIFFITH SAYS

Reserves Are Good; Owner Pleased With His Outfit Now.

By BILLOXI.

MISS., March 2.—(P)—Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, focused his attention today on his baseball club as it went through the daily practice stint. Then he handed down this opinion:

"It will do in any league and in any race."

"Mark down on your cuff," he continued jubilantly, "that I will have the best crop of utility players in the American league next season, a better batch of reserves than the Yankees or Athletics will show, if they stay up all night trying to figure out a way to beat my aggregation."

"And reserves, Napoleon—or was it Pershing?—said, win the battles."

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 2.—(P)—Pittsburgh's Pirates paraded at full training camp strength today and Manager Gibson was added to the list in putting the newly-arrived infielders and outfielders to work.

Working time is short as the players have to be ready for exhibition games within a week.

Manager Gibson was greatly pleased with the first day's work of Floyd Vaughan at shortstop. Vaughn played in winter ball and showed up here in fine shape.

NEW ORLEANS, March 2.—(P)—Manager Roger Peckinpaugh had nothing but good news today about his Cleveland Indians.

He received word that Outfielder Dick Porter had signed his contract, leaving only Pitchers Ferrell and Huddell and Infielder Harley Boss unsigned.

In addition, the 10 men now in camp were in excellent condition aside from Pitcher Clint Brown, who was a trifle overweight.

REDS.

TAMPA, Fla., March 2.—(P)—Adding Joe Morrissey, likely regular second baseman, to his crew, Manager Louis Satterfield of the Cincinnati Reds sent his pitchers and catchers through their first session of spring practice today within two hours after the advance squad reached camp from Cincinnati. The drill, little more than a limbering-up exercise, found 16 players on hand. The rest are to report next week.

YANKEES.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 2.—(P)—The Yankees today began their training routine in the camp of the New York Yankees today and with almost disastrous results. Sammy Byrd, outfielder, underwent a severe attack of the stomach, and Cy Perkins, coach, suffered spine wounds on his left hand. The injuries were not serious, however.

Byrd, not due to report until the regular camp next week, received permission from Manager Joe McCarthy to join the early workouts.

Norwood, being recovered from a leg injury, was sent to the hospital. Wilkey Moore, veteran relief pitcher, and Lefty Gomez, star southpaw, both of whom are overdue, Gomez was married in New York last Sunday. Both have signed their contracts.

DOGGERS.

MIAMI, Fla., March 2.—(P)—The ancient Jack Quigg, bearing his infected tooth with him, appeared in uniform today at the Brooklyn Dodgers' spring training camp.

The great arm that has kept him in the baseball war for close to 30 years was limbered gently by tossing a few lob to Clyde Sukeforth.

Meantime, Manager Max Carey worried about the absence of information on Ray Benge, obtained by the Dodgers in a deal that sent Mickey Finn, Cy Moore and Jackie Warner to the Phillies.

BRVES.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 2.—(P)—A chilly wind blew over Waterfront park today and forced the Braves to postpone their workout. There was no baseball on the practice program. The Braves indulged only in calisthenics, a workout with the medicine ball and a brisk run about the field.

"Shanty" Hogan, still nursing his sunburn, watched the workout from the clubhouse piazza. Eddie Cuyler, the Honkington (Mass.) recruit who disappeared in the Pennsylvania station when the Braves reached New York Monday night, arrived here today and joined the workout. He took a relative in the station when he missed the train.

GIANTS.

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—(P)—Paced by George Davis, outfielder obtained from Pittsburgh during the winter, the New York Giants went through an extensive hitting drill today under the close scrutiny of Manager Bill Terry.

Davis put his full weight behind two pitches and drove a pair of home runs out of Wrigley field to wind up a day of batting practice. Terry put his squad to work in the sliding pits, with special emphasis devoted to the rookie hopefuls.

Hughie Critz, second baseman, took his first workout and said his throwing arm was in the best of condition.

"I have been giving the ol' flopper a good rest," Hughie explained, "and I'm sure it will hold up through the campaign."

The Giants will go to Catalina Island Saturday for the first of a pair of exhibition games with the Chicago Cubs.

PHILLIES.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 2.—(P)—Don Hurst, big first baseman of the Phillies, today announced himself a holdout. Arriving last night with his wife and son, Hurst checked in at a hotel prepared to wait for a larger salary offer.

Three pitchers who were unsigned on their arrival yesterday, came to terms with the club management and had put their names to contracts before the batterymen's first workout today. They are Flint Rhem, Ed Holley and John Berry.

ATHLETICS.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 2.—(P)—Ed Coleman, Philadelphia Athletics' outfielder, today proved to the satisfaction of his teammates and Manager Connie Mack that his ankle, broken last season, is in first-class condition.

Turning out for the second day's workout of the spring training season, the big outfielder raced out a hit in fast time in his turn at batting practice. He hit a hard drive, rounded the turn at first base and tore down the turn at top speed, showing no trace of limp or disposition to favor the ankle.

WHITE SOX.

PASADENA, Cal., March 2.—(P)—The Chicago White Sox got off with another short drill today, stiff muscles still bothering the athletes. They did, however, get their first look of the season at curve ball pitching, served up by one Bill Jones.

Jones, a member of a Pasadena club, had played ball all winter and was in shape. He showed enough to arouse Manager Lew Fonseca's interest and will be kept around for a trial.

TIGERS.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 2.—(P)—Bucky Harris led his Detroit Tigers into their first day of spring training here today, the batterymen working out in a two-hour session. The rest of the squad is not due until next week.

Spotted with a host of Beaumont Texas league graduates were such veterans as George Uhle, Firpo Marberry, Elton Hosselt and Vin Borrell.

"Play Off a Little Bit Farther, Old Kid."

(Not by Brown, Henderson, Kern, Berlin, Cohan, Coward or Donaldson.)

A son of swat of great renown sat in a parlor dim;
And near him sat a lady friend, in person lithe and trim;
"Old girl, you've made a hit with me," he opened for a lead,
"You've got a winning way with you—you've got the curves and speed."
And then he started warming up—the love stuff in his eye—
He curved a fast one round her neck—the other, was waist high;
Whereat the lady jumped at once upon the coaching line
And in a Joe McCarthy voice this chorus did opine—

CHORUS.
"Play off a little bit farther, old kid,
Don't hug the base too tight;
What you need is a bit of a lead,
Just a little bit more to the right;
Don't get to crowding the sack, old kid,
Edge off a few feet away;
And nix on the squeeze, you collection of cheese,
For that ain't the game I play!"

II.
The son of swat moved off at once when these words he did hear;
But in a few brief moments more he was again quite near;
Once more he tried to crowd the base, unmindful of her squawk,
Once more he tried the good old squeeze before she called a balk;
Just then her old man butted in and nicked him on the bun—
A very fine example of the famous "hit and run."
And as the battered player hit the dirt that bitter day,
He wept to think he'd overlooked those words which she did say—

CHORUS.
"Play off a little bit farther, old kid"—etc.

THE CHAMPION FAN.

Anyone who wants to can nominate his selection for baseball's champion fan. My selection goes to George M. Cohan, who has been one of the leading delegates along rooter's row for 30 years, without weakening anywhere along his other sporting interests. For George Cohan there is no athletic interest that isn't hooked up in the old game.

I ran across him last summer in Hollywood when he was making his first motion picture. But in that swirling mass of talkative celluloid the famous actor and playwright had just one interest—a long trip each night to see Hollywood's entry at play in the Pacific Coast league. That was his sole recreation. And one of his main ideas at the time was to finish his picture and swing back east in time for the World Series.

I've heard that baseball interest was slipping for the last 10 years. But the crowds still follow the winners, and that's about all they follow in any other sport.

There are still more than a few millions who will be following the fortunes of Yankees and Cubs, Dodgers and Cards, Athletics and Senators, Ruth and Foxx, Gehrig and O'Doul, or any young star who may crowd his stuff into the headlines.

FOXX AND GEHRIG.

One of the main wars of this budding baseball season will be the battle between one Henry Louis Gehrig, of the New York Yankees, and one James Emory Foxx, of the Philadelphia Athletics.

These two young men happen to be two of the hardiest and most consistent hitters that ever played, only a notch or two back of Babe Ruth for raw power.

Gehrig is 30 years old and Foxx is just 28. Gehrig is 6 feet 1 inch in height, with a displacement of 210 pounds. Foxx is 6 feet in height, weighing 195.

Gehrig has a 10-year big league average above .300, while Foxx is only a few points shy.

Gehrig has been the crown prince of slug, crowding Ruth each year, until Foxx came along last fall to knock both the king and the crown prince off the top perch with an output of 38 homers.

Gehrig had also been the main actor in driving runs across until Foxx supplanted Lou last season with one of the greatest records ever reached.

So these two young stars should be all set for a year of smoking rivalry before the odor of burning leaves indicates that another season is over and another crop of averages has been harvested and put away.

Jimmy Foxx and Lou Gehrig are the types that help to build and keep baseball interest. Both are popular heroes; they happen to be, with none of the grouchy angles that every now and then infect the headlines of many sports.

Now in their prime, these two should provide one of the best duels of 1933. And it might be mentioned that both still have a young fellow to reckon with by the name of George Herman Ruth, who is on the rim of his twentieth campaign.

NEW YORK DOGS CERTAIN TO WIN NATIONAL TITLE

Sage Entries Ordered To Run Again This Morning.

GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn., March 2.—(P)—A spectacular upset in today's races made it certain that the winner and runner-up of the national field trials would come from the kennels of A. G. C. Sage, of New York.

Rapid Transit, a big, upstanding white and liver pointer Sage developed, turned in a beautiful race today that in the opinion of most of the gallery entitled him to the championship.

The judges, however, ordered a second series for tomorrow morning, in which Rapid Transit will run against Superette, a veteran pointer owned by Sage. The gallery considered Superette's race yesterday a good one for a dog nine years old, but not equal to that of School Field, Billious Ben and Norias Roy.

Rapid Transit surprised the gallery with a beautiful race in which he made 10 independent covey finds and one marked single, the record for the entire meet.

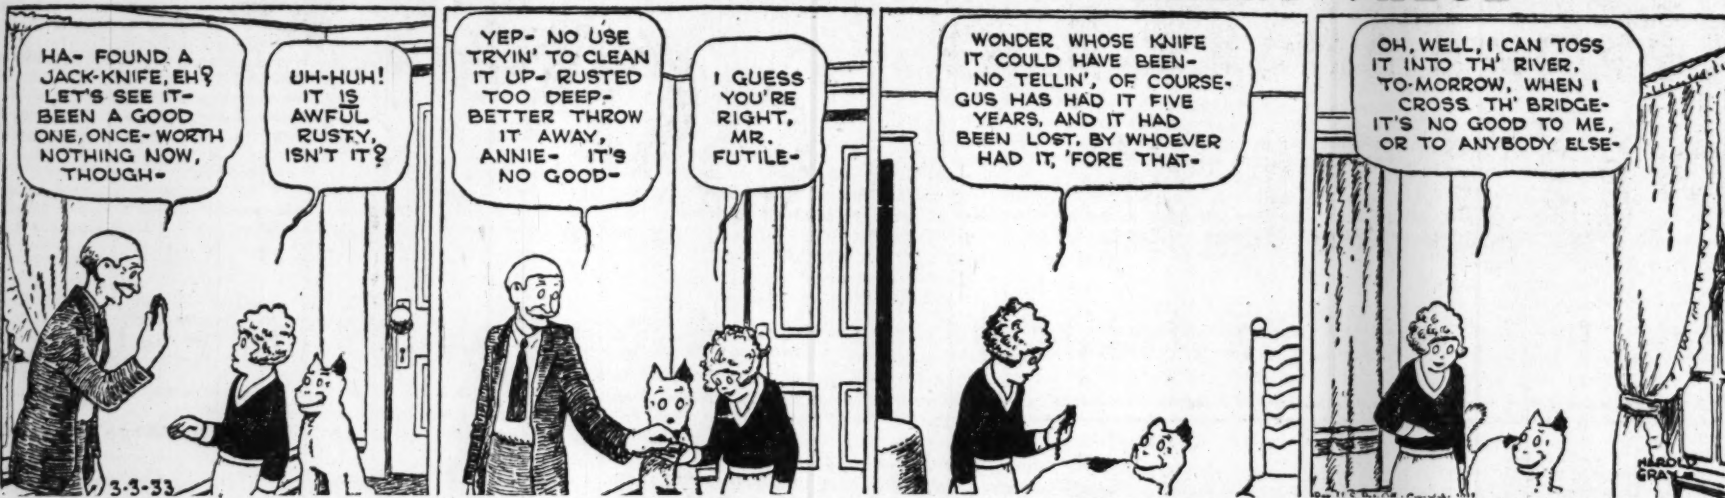

He started out at an even, steady clip and seemed tireless, in the last 30 minutes making a big cast and ending it on a point. Then he made two more points and at noon, when he was taken up, he had located another covey.

Mad Anthony, pointer owned by J. R. Holbrook, was braced with Rapid

Folly Island

By Wallace Irwin

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Bart Burgess is marooned in a cabin on Folly Island, 20 miles from his Long Island home in Wyatville. His companion, legally Frederick Warren, spoiled child of a new-made fortune, known as "Nosey Jack," now over to a town for a career. A girl in a red canoe comes along and invites Bart over to her family's island, but her small brother says their mother would have a fit. Bart senses a family secret. Lady sends help and taxis home. Mr. Davis, the carpenter, tells Bart the Baylors have lived on the island 15 years, but don't mix. The father travels. While the boat is being fitted Bart goes over to the island with his girl, Alice Bayley. He invites her to visit in Wyatville. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT IV.

"I don't know." She was moody, depicting at pine needles. "I can't do anything—but just read." "You seem to be better educated than most of the girls I know. Then, with a glance at her fine body, "You will have anything. We'd have you on horseback in no time." "Oh, I should love to go to Wyatville." With another little sigh. "Tell me more." It was like a bedtime story, his pouring into her ear the charms of a place she had never seen. Perhaps he overplayed the picture, forgetting to show her how he himself was sometimes bored. But she lay there, drinking it in. Wyatville, a faded town where she could sport and play with the youth for which youth bangers. He was "selling" Wyatville to her. And Bart Burgess was an able sales-man. "Tell me what I'll do," he said, half in earnest. "I'll come over here sometime and coax your mother." "Nobody ever coaxed mother. Even daddy can't do that." "You prefer your daddy, don't you?" "To mother?" Wide-eyed at his idea. "I adore her." But why doesn't she let you do what you want?" "She has some good reason. She always has." "Our dogs don't need to be sicked. And if you came with Hen Love they'd be pleasant as pie." Her dimple showing, her gypsy teeth gleam. "Then expect me on the beach one of these days." "With a ticket to Wyatville in your pocket?"

Aunt Het

One afternoon, about 10 days after the funeral, Bart lingered in his bedroom, a high Victorian space in the high Victorian house. Somewhat impatiently he was waiting for Mr. McClellan, the family lawyer, to finish talking with his mother. Lately he gazed at the enlarged photographs on the wall; pictures of himself at St. Paul's school, at Yale, at Columbia Law school. His eyes took in the old-fashioned details of the room which his mother, fond curator of love, refused to have changed. He looked out the bay window, across the broad estate. The velvet lawns, the fancy trees and shrubs reminded him of dad. The good, simple-hearted father—with what gallant merriment he had faced life until its sudden end. The responsibility of manhood was heavy in Bart Burgess at that moment. And with it came an unreasonable darkening of the spirit, a cold, unspoken prophecy. Willfully the young man shook away the specter and summoned back the strength which had been his pride in proud to see in him. But a sudden knock at the door caused him to jump. What was the matter with his nerves after all? It was only Lilla, announcing Mrs. Sackett. Yes, Bart would be right down. And was Mr. McClellan staying for dinner?

"Yes, Mr. Burgess." Two weeks ago he had been only "Mr. Bart." "And Mrs. Burgess is having her tray upstairs." Bart went down the hall, welcoming Lora Sackett's visit a source of comic relief, after all this waiting. A certain staidness about the big, quiet house was getting on his nerves, and he was glad to see Lora's faint kinship made her occasional visits proper in a mournful household. He found her in a little back living room, a spot of color against the high, white panels. Nature had made her striking with her lustrous yellow hair and large, brown eyes; she had heightened the effect by a fiery green

"No but I'm serious." He felt his heart churning. "I've studied law, you know, and I'm a wonderful arguer." "Oh, really, would you try to convince mother?" "Certainly, I'm going to. She opened her mouth to speak, then sat up suddenly. Somewhere a whistle was blowing. "It's noon," she said, scrambling to her feet. "That the brick works over at Port England. I've got to take you back right away before mother—"

"She didn't finish, but started running down the rocks toward Dog Cove. As they were shoving the canoe across the yellow sand he found himself depicting at pine needles. "I can't do anything—but just read." "You seem to be better educated than most of the girls I know. Then, with a glance at her fine body, "You will have anything. We'd have you on horseback in no time." "Oh, I should love to go to Wyatville." With another little sigh. "Tell me more." It was like a bedtime story, his pouring into her ear the charms of a place she had never seen. Perhaps he overplayed the picture, forgetting to show her how he himself was sometimes bored. But she lay there, drinking it in. Wyatville, a faded town where she could sport and play with the youth for which youth bangers. He was "selling" Wyatville to her. And Bart Burgess was an able sales-man. "Tell me what I'll do," he said, half in earnest. "I'll come over here sometime and coax your mother." "Nobody ever coaxed mother. Even daddy can't do that." "You prefer your daddy, don't you?" "To mother?" Wide-eyed at his idea. "I adore her." But why doesn't she let you do what you want?" "She has some good reason. She always has." "Our dogs don't need to be sicked. And if you came with Hen Love they'd be pleasant as pie." Her dimple showing, her gypsy teeth gleam. "Then expect me on the beach one of these days." "With a ticket to Wyatville in your pocket?"

"How's your mother?" she asked. "All right. A lawyer's got her nailed this afternoon." "I looked in sacred oil. Ages ago they had a grief in the family—"

"And now you'll be the business man of the family, I suppose. Up at dawn, scolding yourself with coffee, catching the seven-forty-nine, back again on the five-forty-nine, with a Wall Street edition under your arm, foraging the wealth of God in your heart. Bart, I can't image it." "Well, somebody's got to do it." He laughed stiffly.

"You're a sweet child," Lora's gloved hand was like a kitten's paw on Bart's arm. "Your father was that way. I mean, he stayed so jolly and so." "Yes, he did." "I mean, he never seemed to let things spoil him. The way some businessmen get one of those complexes where they play around a lot." "Sweet child. I mean with other women."

"I hope so." "She got up, pretending to hunt for an ash tray, and stood very close to him. How small she was, smiling up. "I wonder—" she stopped, bit her lip. "Wonder what?" "What is it that makes you Burgess men like that? Is it pure goodness? Or are you just born indifferent?" He laughed away his embarrassment. "Lady, didn't you say I was only an infant? Give me a chance to grow up."

Her eyes said, "I'm giving you that chance. Now he could read them plainly. But were the Burgess men indifferent? Lora Sackett was launching with her mouth open, showing gleaming teeth, a little red tongue between the false red of her lips.

SPECIAL NOTICE

NEXT TUESDAY MORNING THE CONSTITUTION WILL ANNOUNCE DETAILS OF A NEW $250.00 CASH PRIZE JIG-SAW

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

Clip puzzle pieces and arrange to form a picture. Paste on cardboard if you wish. You'll find that one piece is missing. Reprints of the missing piece will be given you at any one of the stores as indicated in this ad.

This reprint of the missing puzzle part will be given you at these stores between the opening hour and 5 p. m. Friday. You can not get it before stores' opening hours Friday nor after 5 p. m. Friday! You do NOT have to buy anything to get this missing piece.

A nice piece of paper, or cardboard, scissors, paste and pencil, or pen and ink, are all you need.

Place your name and address on your entry; also name of store where you got your missing puzzle part and select the ONE reason (one reason only) from the list below which you consider the most important ("Why Friday is the Best Day to Shop.")

You will be given until 6 p. m. Tuesday, March 7, to bring or send your entry to The Constitution building. Winners will be announced in this ad next week.

"WHY FRIDAY IS THE BEST DAY TO SHOP"

(Select ONE Reason From Following List)

- (a) Ads in the MORNING PAPER Friday give the buyer a whole, unhurried day in which — after reading the ads—to take advantage of economy opportunities offered in every line of household needs, wearing apparel and pantry requirements.
- (b) Store assistants have more time to advise and look after customers.
- (c) The buyer for the home can take early advantage of low prices on week-end specials which prevail Friday, the same as Saturday.
- (d) The buyer finds comfort and satisfaction with store less crowded, affording her more opportunity for careful selection.
- (e) The buyer finds greater economy and satisfaction in buying when store stocks are more complete.
- (f) The buyer avoids disappointment occasioned when stocks of fast-selling week-end specials have been exhausted.
- (g) Friday buying helps the store management to operate more efficiently by spreading week-end rush business out over two days.

You are to select ONE of above reasons (and one ONLY). Write it either on the back of your puzzle or on separate piece of paper and send it along with your entry.

THE CONSTITUTION CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

Information

CLOSING HOURS
Want Ads are accepted up to 9 p. m. for publication the next day. The closing hour for the Sunday edition is 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

CLASSIFIED RATES

Daily and Sunday rates per line for consecutive insertions:
One line 20 cents
Three lines 50 cents
Seven lines 100 cents
Minimum, 3 lines (12 words).

In estimating the space of an ad figure its average words in a line and stop before expiration will only be charged for the number of lines the ad occupied and adjustments made at the rate earned.

Errors in advertisements should be reported immediately. The Constitution will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

All want ads are restricted to their proper classification. The Constitution reserves the right to revise or reject any advertisement.

Ads ordered by telephone are accepted from persons who have a telephone or city directory on memorandum charge only. In return for this courtesy the advertiser is expected to remit promptly.

TARZAN THE UNTAMED No. 221

"Kidnaped by a maharajah, doomed to months of hopeless wandering with half savage Turcomans, all sold into a harem," continued Olga, "it seemed to me that I had borne almost all I could. I did not imagine what the year following my meeting with Dick Terrell held for me! All Europe came to know me as rich, envied and famous."

"My American friend in need told me he was on leave, due to start for Russia the very day fate made him my deliverer from the Persian slave market. He insisted that I go with him. There being no alternative, I grasped at this escape from my woes. He made all arrangements; purchased my clothes and comforts."

"Under cover of the night he succeeded in smuggling me out of the Oriental city. By train and motor we traveled several days, crossed the frontier and came to the engineers' headquarters where he had charge. There safely among his friends, I was made welcome. It was planned that I should go home to England."

"Two days after our arrival, Dick was suddenly stricken with a fever, the result, the doctors believed, of the poisoned wound he received in rescuing me. Weeks I nursed and cared for him. When he seemed recovering, he begged me to become his wife. I did not love him; but was profoundly grateful to him. And so, I was married to Richard Terrell!"
